INTRODUCTION.

THE Gulshan i Raz was composed in A.H. 717 (A.D. 1317), in answer to fifteen questions on the doctrines of the Sufis, or Muhammadan Mystics, propounded by Amir Syad Hosaini,¹ a celebrated Sufi doctor of Herat. The author's name was Sa'd ud din Mahmud Shabistari, so called from his birth-place, Shabistar,² a village near Tabriz, in the province of Azarbaijan. From a brief notice of his life in the Mujālis ul 'Ushshak, repeated in substance in the Haft Iklim, the Safina i Khushgu, and the Riaz ush Shu'ara, it would appear that he was born about the middle of the seventh century of the Hejira (A.D. 1250), and that he died at Tabriz, where he had passed the greater part of his life, in A.H. 720. The only particulars of his life recorded in these Tazkiras are, that he was devotedly attached to one of his disciples named Shaikh Ibrahim, and that in addition to the Gulshan i Raz he wrote treatises entitled Hakk ul Yakin and Risala i Shahid. No further information as to the circumstances of his life and times is to be found in the poem itself or in the commentary, but we know from the Habib us Siyar and other chronicles³ that his birth was about contemporaneous with the incursion of the heathen Moghuls under Hulaku Khan, the conquest of Persia, Syria and Mesopotamia, and the downfall of the Abbaside Khalifs, or "Vicars of God." And living as he did at Tabriz, the capital of the newly established Moghul Empire, he must have witnessed the long struggle which ensued between the Christian Missionaries and the Muhammadan Mullas to gain the Moghul Sultans over to their respective religions,—a struggle the result of which was for a long time doubtful,¹ and which was not finally decided till A.H. 696, when the Emperor Ghazan Khan, with nearly one hundred thousand of his followers, adopted the Muhammadan faith. During the pendency of this struggle Tabriz was visited by missions from Pope Nicolas IV. and Pope Boniface VIII., and also by the celebrated Marco Polo; and possibly Mahmud's acquaintance with Christian doctrines may have been derived or improved from intercourse with Halton or some of the other monks attached to these missions.

The first European authors to notice the Gulshan i Raz were the travellers Chardin and Bernier, circ. 1700, both of whom describe it as the "Summa theologica" of the Sufis. In the course of the eighteenth century several copies of the poem found their way to the great European libraries. In 1821 Dr. Tholuck, of Berlin, published a few extracts from it, with Latin translations, in his "Ssufismus," and in 1825 a German translation of about one-third of the entire poem in his "Blüthensammlung aus der Morgenländischen Mystik." In 1838 Von Hammer-Purgstall published the Persian text, based on the Berlin and the Vienna MSS., along with a German verse translation and a few notes from Lahiji's commentary.² The text now published is based on that of Hammer, collated with two Indian MSS. of the poem and commentary,—one the poor copy in the library of the Asiatic Society at Calcutta, the other a very correct copy in the possession of a Zemindar in Midnapore. On the authority of this MS. several couplets omitted by Hammer have been restored, several repetitions retrenched, and various erroneous readings corrected.¹ All the alterations made have been indicated in the margin, and none have been made without MS. authority. Hammer's readings are marked H; those of the Midnapore MS., L.; and others, given in the commentary or in the Calcutta copy, MSS. The translation has been made as close to the original as possible, Lahiji's renderings, as given in his paraphrase, being strictly followed throughout. The translations of the Arabic quotations in the text are printed in italics. The notes contain a brief abstract of Lahiji's voluminous commentary, which is itself a great authority on Sufism, and also a few of the more striking parallelisms to Sufi ideas to be found in the Neoplatonists, and in the mystical theologians of Europe.

It is this correspondence with European Mysticism which gives Sufism its chief interest for European students. Many of the Catholic definitions of 'mystical theology' would do for descriptions of Sufism.² The ruling ideas in both systems are very similar, if not absolutely identical. Thus, for instance, we find the Sufis talking of 'love to God,' of 'union with God,' of 'death to self, and life eternal in God,' of 'the indwelling in man of the Spirit,' of 'the nullity of works and ceremonies,' of 'grace and spiritual illumination,' and of the 'Logos.' Both systems may be characterised as religions of the heart, as opposed to formalism and ritualism. Both exalt the 'inner light'³ at the expense of the outward ordinance and voice of the Church. Both exhibit the same craving for visionary raptures and supernatural exaltations, and have been productive of similar excesses and extravagancies. If Sufism has its Mevlavis and Rafā'is and Beshara' fakirs, its dancing and howling, and Antinomian durveshes, so

European Mysticism has produced the Omphalopsychi or navelgazing monks of Mount Athos, the Jansenist "Convulsionaries," the Anabaptists of Munster, and the Shakers.¹ Finally, to complete the parallel, both systems have a tendency to Pantheism, and both use similar sensuous figures to express their visions and raptures. The Pantheism of the Gulshan i Raz has its counterpart in that of Eckart, the "Doctor Eestaticus," and much of its sensuous imagery might be matched by the erotic language of St. Bernard's sermons on the Canticles, the wonderful effusions of St. Theresa, and the mystical hymns of St. Alphonso Liguori and others.²

At first sight it is difficult to see how a subjective emotional religious system like Sufism could have originated from the rigid formalism of the Koran,³ and still more how orthodox Mussulmans can possibly reconcile its Pantheism, as many of them do,⁴ with the uncompromising Monotheism taught by Muhammad. The answer would seem to be that the Koran, and still more the Hadis, in one department of their language, contain the germs of this line of religious thought. They in fact use a double language. At one time they represent Allah as having created the world once for all, and as now removed to His seat in the 'arsh or highest heaven, having left His creatures to work out their own salvation or condemnation by

⁴ The Musnavi is commonly said to be the Koran of Persia (Hughes, "Notes on Muhammadanism," p. 231); Khaja 'Ayni, an orthodox Sunni doctor, in a work published at Constantinople in 1834, warmly commends both the Musnavi and the Gulshan i Raz.—Hammer. their own free will, according to the lights given them by His prophets ; at another time they represent Him as the ' Subtile ' Being, immanent and ever working in His creatures, the sum of all existence, the ' fulness of life,' whereby all things move, act and exist, omnipresent, not only predestinating but actually originating all action, dwelling in and directly influencing and communing with each individual soul. The Sufis, being men of an emotional mystical temperament, or, as they called themselves, ' men of heart,' ' men looking behind the veil,' ' interior men,'¹ naturally caught at all expressions of this kind which seemed to bring the divine mysterious object of their religious emotion nearer to them, and, as theologians are prone to do, dwelt on the texts that fell in with their own view, to the exclusion of passages of the opposite tendency. This view they developed with the aid of the Greek and especially the Neoplatonic metaphysics, which had been popularised by the Arabian philosophers Farabi, Ghazzali, Ibn Roshd and Ibn Sina. Under these influences they identified the Allah of the Koran with the Neoplatonic Being, the One, the Necessary Being, the only Reality, " The Truth,"² the Infinite, which includes all actual being, good and evil, the First Cause, source of all action, good and evil alike. The world of phenomena and man—every thing else in fact but Allah—they identified with Not being,—absolute nonentity, which like a mirror reflects Being, and by thus borrowing particles of Being rises to the rank of Contingent being, a kind of being which, as Plato says, is and is not, and partakes both of existence and non-existence. This Not being is a sort of Manichæan Ahriman, which solves all practical difficulties attaching to their speculative system. According to their theory the Infinite includes all being, evil included ; but as this is not consistent with the goodness of the Allah of the

Koran, evil is said to proceed from Not being.¹ Again, according to their theory the spark of real being—divinæ particula auræ—in man is identical with the Infinite Being, and hence man would seem to be above laws and creeds; but as this would lead to Antinomianism, it is said that, while man remains in the intermediate state of Contingent being, he is as it were weighed down and held apart from Being by the element of Not being, and that in this probationary state laws and creeds are needed to restrain his evil tendencies. Thus, by the aid of this convenient 'Not being,' which is something while it is wanted, and relapses into nothing directly it is no longer needed, the Sufis avoid all the immoral and irreligious consequences of their theory.

Hence it is clear that the Pantheism of the Sufis, at any rate as expounded in the Gulshan i Raz, must not be confounded with the European Pantheism of the present day—that Pantheism which in the words of Bossuet, "makes every thing God except God himself." In the Gulshan i Raz we find a different species of Pantheism—one held conjointly with a theory of divine personality, and the obligations of morality. Mahmud's Pantheism is an amplification rather than a minimification of the idea of the Divinity, infinite, omnipresent and omnipotent.² He felt the sense of his own existence and his own freedom passing away and becoming absorbed in the sense of absolute dependence on this Infinite Being. Compared with this omnipresent, infinite, unseen Power underlying all the phenomena of the universe,³ dominating man's will, striving in man's heart,—

Warming in the sun, refreshing in the breeze,
Glowing in the stars, and blossoming in the trees,—

all outward existences and agencies, whether in man or in the world,

² The same feeling is expressed by many Christian poets, e.g. Dante, Paradiso, iii. 86:

"In la Sua volonta è nostra pace:
Ella è quel mare, al qual tutto si muove,
Ciò, ch' Ella cria, o che natura face."

³ Mr. Herbert Spencer, "First Principles," p. 99, says: "We are obliged to regar seemed to sink into utter nothingness. In point of fact Mahmud's Pantheism is only the corollary of the Muhammadan doctrine of Jabr, usually translated predestination, but, more exactly, the compulsion to carry out the Divine will, the universal action of Allah. The same sense and conviction of this irresistible divine impulse and compulsion which, according to their temperaments, drives some men into furious and fanatical action,¹ and makes others sit down and cry 'Kismet,' impels men of a logical turn of mind to regard not only all the action but also all the existence in the universe as the direct outcome or manifestation of the Divine energy.

The whole Sufi system follows as a logical consequence from this fundamental assumption. Sense and reason cannot transcend phenomena, or see the real Being which underlies them all; so sense and reason must be ignored and superseded in favour of the 'inner light,' the inspiration or divine illumination in the heart, which is the only faculty whereby men perceive the Infinite. Thus enlightened, men see that the whole external phenomenal world, including man's 'self,' is an illusion, non-existent in itself, and, in so far as it is non-existent, evil, because a departure from the one real Being. Man's only duty is to shake off this illusion, this clog of Not being, to efface and die to self, and to be united with and live eternally in the one real Being—"The Truth." In this progress to union external observances and outward forms profit little, because they keep alive the illusion of duality, of man's self-righteousness, of his personal agency and personal merit, whereas the true course is to ignore all reference to self—to be passive, that God may work—and then the Divine light and grace will enter the chamber of man's heart and every phenomenon as a manifestation of some power by which we are acted on, and though omnipresence is unthinkable, yet, as experience discloses no bounds to the diffusion of phenomena, we are unable to think of any limits to the diffusion of this power, while the criticisms of science teach us that this power is incomprehensible." Mahmud would agree that it is incomprehensible by reason, but would add that it is cognisable by spiritual illumination—the clairvoyance of the heart.

operate in him without impediment, and draw him to "The Truth," and unite him with "The One."

The manner in which these ruling ideas are worked out and connected, by means of allegorical interpretation, with the teaching of the Koran and the Hadis will be best explained by an outline of the poem.

After an exordium laying down the fundamental principle of the sole existence of the one real Being, and of the illusive non-real nature of all phenomenal being, and a short account of the composition of the poem, Mahmud proceeds to inquire how men are to gain this essential knowledge of God. The answer commonly given is, by thought. But thought is of two kinds, one logical reasoning, the other spiritual illumination. The first method is inapplicable, because sense and reason cannot transcend phenomena, and work up to the invisible and incomprehensible Being underlying them.¹ They are powerless to shake off the illusion of the apparent reality of the sensible world. From this original defect of mental eyesight, whatever philosophers and theologians say of God only proves their own incapacity to apprehend Him.²

II. Reason, looking at the Light of lights, is blinded by excess of light, like a bat by the sun. This annihilation of the mental vision caused by its proximity to the Light of lights—this consciousness of its own nothingness caused by its approach to Being—is the highest degree of perception which contingent being can attain.³ When the contingent seer attains this state of annihilation of his phenomenal self, the true light is revealed to him, as a spiritual illumination streaming in on his soul.

The phenomenal world is in itself Not being, wherein are reflected, as in a mirror, the various attributes of Being. By a species of radiation or effluxion of waves of light from Being, each atom of Not being becomes a reflection of some one divine attribute. These effluent atoms of Being are ever striving to rejoin their source, but so long as their phenomenal extrusion lasts they are held back from reunion with their divine source.

² Cognoscitur non secundum sui vim sed secundum cognoscentium facultatem.—Boethius. Hamilton, Metaphysics, i. 61.

Passing to precept, Mahmud says, "Rest not in the illusions of sense and reason, but abandon your 'natural realism,' as Abraham abandoned the worship of the host of heaven. Press on till, like Moses at Mount Sinai, you see the mount of your illusive phenomenal existence annihilated at the approach of Divine glory. Ascend like Muhammad to heaven, and behold the mighty signs of the Lord."

Thus illumined you will see "The Truth" to be the source of all being, diffused and poured out into the phenomenal world by means of the various emanations, beginning with the Logos and ending with man.

"The Truth" it is who alone is acting in the universe. All the revolutions of the heavenly spheres, stars and planets, proceed not from themselves, as the undevout astronomer says, but from "The Truth." He is, as it were, the Master potter who turns the wheel. The motions of the heavens, the coalescence of discordant elements into bodies, the obedience of plants and animals to the laws of their kinds, are all His never ceasing handiwork.

With regard to man, he is the soul of the world—the microcosm. While other creatures reflect only single divine attributes, man reflects them all. He is an epitome of the universe, and so by introspection he may see in himself reflections of all the divine attributes—of the "fulness of the Godhead." But on the other side he is black with the darkness and evil of Not being. His object therefore should be to purge away this non-existent corrupt side of himself, which holds him back from union. And, union once attained, thought is no longer possible, for thought implies duality.

III. To "travel into self" means "introrsum ascendere," — to journey out of the phenomenal non-existent self into the real self, which is one with "The Truth." This journey has two stages, dying to self and abiding in "The Truth." When man's phenomenal self is effaced, and the real Self alone remains, law has no longer any dominion over him.

IV. These journeys are called the "journey up to God" and the "journey down from God in God," and are a sort of circuit, and he who completes the circuit is the "perfect man."

When man is born into the world evil passions spring up in him, and if he gives way to them he is lost. But if he attends to the promptings of Divine grace and light in his soul, he repents, and is converted, and journeys up to God,—effacing self-will, self-knowledge, and his entire phenomenal corrupt self-existence; and purifying his nobler part from the stain of externality, he ascends in spirit to heaven, and is united in spirit with "The Truth."

This stage is the holy state known as saintship, exemplified in saints and prophets.

But the "perfect man" must not pause in this ecstatic union, which is above all laws. Notwithstanding this exaltation he must journey down again to the phenomenal world, in and along with God, and in this downward journey he must conform to outward laws and creeds. His sanctification must bring forth the outward fruit of good works.

The law is as a husk, and the holy state of identity with "The Truth" the kernel; and when the kernel is ripe it bursts the husk. But the perfect man must not rest or abide in this ecstatic state of union with "The Truth," but so long as he is in this life must "return to sobriety;" and though "The Truth" is the fixed and abiding home of his soul, he must wear the law as an outward garment, and the Sufi 'path' or canon as his inward garment, and perform all external legal observances.¹

The perfection of this saintly state will be seen in Muhammad Mehdi, 'the seal of the saints,' who by the secret of unity will perfectly attain to "The Truth."

V. The man who knows this secret—that all things are One—dies to self, and lives, with regenerate heart, in God. He sweeps away all that comes between God and the soul, and "breaks through to the oneness,"¹ as Eckart said. Good works, it is true, raise men to a 'laudable station,' but so long as division and duality and 'self' remain, true mystical union of knower and known is not attained.

VI. But if knower and Known be one, how comes it that the knower feels within him emotions of love and aspiration drawing him towards the 'Known?' In man's present phenomenal state, the mixture of Not being in him divides him from Being; and these aspirations are the stirrings of the true Being within him, recalling and drawing him as with a magnet to his source. If he be not of those who are born blind to this spiritual light within, these sparks kindle up the flame of love to God, which burns up his phenomenal self, and shows him his real self one with "The Truth."

VII. The man who, like Mansur Hallaj, the wool-carder, has carded away his phenomenal self, can say, "I am the Truth;" for when man takes his eternal side, 'other,' i. e. Not being, is annihilated, and nothing is left but Being. When God withdraws what belongs to Him all things fall back into their original nothingness. All phenomenal existence is merely an illusion, as we may see from the case of echoes, reflections, past and future time, and fleeting accidents, wherein all the externality or objectivity of substance consists.

VIII. The creature state being thus non-existent, man cannot of himself move, draw near to, or unite with "The Truth." Union is only a phrase for annihilating the phenomenal element in man—sweeping off the dust of contingent being. The genesis of the creature world is an eternal process. It is as a drop of water, raised from the sea of Being in mist, poured down in rain, converted into plants, animals, man, and finally recalled into the bosom of the sea. Phenomena are constantly annihilated in the universal Nonmenon, and this annihilation is union.

IX. The illusion of free-will is Magianism, setting up an evil first cause, Ahriman, over against the good, Ormuzd. This illusion must be shaken off and annihilated in the conviction that the only free agent is "The Truth," and man a passive instrument in His hands, and absolutely dependent on His pleasure. Man's glory lies in abandoning his self-will, and finding his true will in God's will.

X. Going back to the relation of the law to the state of sanctification, called in the fourth answer "The Truth,"¹ and here called "the knowledge of faith," Mahmud compares the former to the shell, and the latter to the pearl within it. The Sufi must extract this pearl; but, on the other hand, he must not break the shell till the pearl within it is fully formed. The law is a schoolmaster to bring him to "The Truth." Without this faith, this fixed spiritual habitude, this settled internal character or 'state' of the heart, no external legal works are virtuous in the highest sense. Legal and formal works cannot sanctify man;² it is the saintly disposition which sanctifies works. From this disposition all the virtues flow spontaneously. All the virtues lie in the mean, in equipoise and harmony, and this harmony of the soul calls down and attracts the Spirit from above. This heavenly spirit operates in man like the sun's beams on the earth. As it were enamoured of the harmonious soul, the Spirit enters into a mystical marriage union with it, the issue of which is gracefulness, virtue and the beauty of holiness. But all these are not of man that worketh, but of God that giveth grace.

XI. Absolute Being is the summum genus embracing all being; but in one sense actual phenomenal being is wider, because it is absolute plus phenomenal limited being. This phenomenal side is renewed every moment, as indicated by the texts about 'the new creation.' Similarly the texts about 'the resurrection and world to come' indicate that the dispositions acquired by men in this life will then be manifested in 'spiritual bodies,' i.e. forms appropriate to them. The perfect will then drink the 'pure wine' of union with God. There will remain no duality or distinction of persons. Hence faith, reason, devotion, paradise and houris will then become an empty tale.¹ Such will be the perfect 'union' in the world to come, but in this world all ecstatic union is followed by sobriety and separation.

² In the Nafhat ul Uns, the Shaikh of Islam is quoted as saying, "God is veiled from the heart of the man who relies on his own good works." Compare Luther's doctrine of justification by faith.

XII. Mahmud concludes this part of the discussion by reiterating his main thesis that all things are One. The Eternal and the temporal are not two distinct entities, since the temporal is merely a subjective illusion, like the circle of fire seen when a single spark of fire is whirled quickly round.

XIII. to XV. These last three sections are devoted to an explanation of the figurative language whereby the Sufis express their conceptions of God and the universe, and their ecstatic experiences. And of this language it may be said that though it seems irreverent and unseemly to us, it did not seem so to them. As Xenophanes² saw, men's conceptions of the Deity bear a constant relation to their own moral and intellectual stature. Symbols that we see to be inadequate and misleading, were not improbably the highest attainable by the untutored minds of other ages and countries, and thus possessed, perhaps, a relative goodness of their own. Answer XV. shows us that one of the main characteristics of the Sufis was their readiness to recognise and appreciate whatever seemed to them to be good and true in other religions, such as Christianity, Magianism, and even Idolatry;¹ and there is high authority² (if authority be needed) for thinking it not inconsistent with our loyalty to our own religion to mete out similar tolerant measure to them.

EXORDIUM.

In the name of Him who taught the soul to think,
And kindled the heart's lamp with the light of soul;¹
By Whose light the two worlds were illumined,
By Whose grace the dust of Adam bloomed with roses;
That Almighty one who in the twinkling of an eye,
From Kaf and Nun brought forth the two worlds!²
What time the Kaf of His power breathed on the pen,³
It cast thousands of pictures on the page of Not being.
5 From that breath were produced the two worlds,⁴
From that breath proceeded the soul of Adam.
In Adam were manifested reason and discernment,
Whereby he perceived the principle of all things.
When he beheld himself a specific person,
He thought within himself "What am I?"⁵
From part to whole he made a transit,
And thence returned back to the world.
He saw that the world is an imaginary thing,
Like as one diffused through many numbers.⁶

All are one, both the visible and the invisible.

God most high is the eternal one who with a breath
Originates and terminates both worlds.

The world of command and that of creatures are here one,

One becomes many and many few.

Whereon the creatures of this world are journeying ;

On this road the prophets are as princes,

Guides, leaders and counsellors.

And of them our lord Muhammad is the chief,

At once the first and the last in this matter.

The One (Ahad) was made manifest in the mim of Ahmad.

In this circuit the first emanation became the last.³

- 20 A single *mim*⁴ divides Ahad from Ahmad ;
The world is immersed in that one mim.
In him is completed the end of this road,
In him is the station of the text 'I call to God,'⁵

² See Answer XII., i. e. the one Divine Being who is evolved, and rayed out through His various emanations down to man,—the lowest point in the circle,—and is united again to Himself in man's upward journey back to Unity. L.

⁵ Koran, Sura XII. 108.

- His entrancing state is the union of union,
 His heart ravishing beauty the light of light.
 He went before and all souls follow after
 Grasping the skirts of his garment.
 As for the saints on this road before and behind
 They each give news of their own stages.
- 25 When they have reached their limits
 They discourse of the 'knower' and the 'known,'¹
 One in the ocean of unity says 'I am the Truth,'²
 Another speaks of near, and far,³ and the moving boat,
 One, having acquired the external knowledge,
 Gives news of the dry land of the shore.⁴
 One takes out the pearl and it becomes a stumbling-block,
 Another leaves the pearl and it remains in its shell.⁵
 One tells openly this tale of part and of whole,⁶
 Another takes his text from eternal and temporal:⁷
- 30 One tells of curl, of mole, and of eyebrow,⁸
 And displays to view wine, lamp and beauty.⁹
 One speaks of his own being and its illusion,¹⁰
 Another is devoted to idols and the Magian girdle.¹¹
 Since the language of each is according to his degree of progress,
 They are hard to be understood of the people.
 He who is perplexed as to these mysteries
 Is bound to learn their meaning.

THE CAUSE OF WRITING THIS BOOK.

- Seven and ten years had passed after seven hundred,
 From the Flight, when lo, in the month Shawál¹
- 35 A messenger of a thousand graces and virtues
 Arrived at the behest of the men of Khorásan.
 A great man, who in that country is famed²
 For his varied learning as a fount of light,—
 Whom all the men of Khorásan, great and small,
 Pronounce to be better than all men of this age,—
 Had written an epistle on the matter of mystery
 Addressed to the masters of mystery.
 Therein many difficult expressions
 In use amongst the masters of indications,
- 40 Had been versified in the form of several questions,
 A world of mystery in a few words.
 When the messenger read that epistle, forthwith
 The news was noised abroad by many mouths.
 All the nobles present in that congregation,
 Turned their eyes upon this durvesh.
 One who was a man well versed in affairs,³
 And who had heard these mysteries from me a hundred times,
 Said to me, “Tell the answers off straightway,
 “That the men of the world may profit thereby.”
- 45 I replied, “What need? for again and again
 “Have I set forth these problems in treatises.”
 “True,” said he, “but I hope to have from you

² Amir Hosaini is the person referred to. See Introduction.

³ Lahiji says the name of this person was Shaikh Aminuddin, and the conversation took place at Tabriz.

- Wherefore at his solicitation I began
 An answer to that epistle in concise terms.
 Forthwith, in that illustrious congregation,
 I pronounced this discourse without hesitation or repetition.
 Now, with their wonted favour and kindness,
 They will pardon my shortcomings ;
- 50 All know that this person in his whole life
 Has never attempted to write poetry.
 And though his talents be competent thereto,
 He has rarely had to compose verse.
 Though he has composed many works in prose,
 He has never compiled a masnavi in verse.
 Prosody and rhyme weigh not mysteries,¹
 The pearl of mystery is not held in all vessels.
 Mystery cannot be compressed into letters,
 The Red Sea is not contained in a jug.
- 55 Why should I, to whom even words are lacking,
 Why should I take on myself a further burden ?
 This is not boasting, but it is by way of compliment
 And of apology to the men of heart.
 I take no reproach to myself for my poor poetry,
 For no poet like 'Attar is born in a hundred centuries.
 Were there a hundred worlds of mystery set forth in this wise,
 They would be only one grain from 'Attar's shop,²
 But all this have I written of my own experience,
 And not plagiarized as a demon from angels.³
- 60 In short, I delivered the answers to the questions
 Off hand, each to each, neither more nor less.
 The messenger took the letter with reverence,
 And departed again by the road that he came.

¹ Prosody can "weigh" heavy and light (or, as we should say, long and short) syllables, but not Sufi mysteries. L.

² Fariduddin 'Attar, author of the Mantik ut Tair, &c., was a druggist.

³ Koran, Sura XV. 18. The devils are said to ascend to overhear the talk of the angels in heaven.

Again that noble was instant with me,
 Saying, "Do me yet another favour,
 "Expound these mysteries which you have spoken.
 "Out of theory bring them into evidence."¹
 I did not think it possible for me at that season
 To treat thereof with the unction² of ecstasy,
 65 For the explanation thereof in speech is impossible,³
 The master of ecstasy alone knows what is ecstasy.
 Nevertheless, according to the word of the teacher of the faith,
 I rejected not the postulant of the faith,⁴
 But to the end that these mysteries might be explained,
 The parrot of my eloquence lifted up his voice.
 By aid of heavenly grace and divine blessing
 I spoke the whole discourse in a few hours.
 When my heart craved of heaven a title for this book,
 There came an answer to my heart, "It is our Rose Garden."
 70 Since heaven has named it "Rose Garden,"
 May it enlighten the eyes of all souls.

² Zauk, 'taste,' 'delight,' 'religious exaltation.'

³ Compare 1 Corinthians, ii. 14.

⁴ Alluding to the Hadis, "Reject not questioners."

QUESTION I.

First of all I am perplexed about my own thought;
What is that which they call thinking?

ANSWER I.¹

You say, "Tell me what is 'thinking,'
"Since I am perplexed as to its meaning."
Thinking is passing from the false to the truth,
And seeing the Absolute Whole in the part.
Philosophers who have written books on it,
Say as follows when they are defining it,
75 That when a conception² is formed in the mind,
It is first of all named reminiscence.³
And when you pass on from this in thinking,⁴
It is called by the learned interpretation.⁵
When conceptions are properly arranged in the mind,
The result with logicians is known as thinking.
From proper arrangement of known conceptions
The unknown proposition⁶ becomes known.
The major premiss is a father, the minor a mother,
And the conclusion a son, O brother!

² Tasawwur, conception, "idea."

⁶ Tasdik, assertion, verification, proposition, as in Risala Shamsiya 3.

- 80 But to learn of what kind this arrangement is,
 Reference must be made to books of logic.
 Moreover, unless divine guidance aids it,
 Verily logic is mere bondage of forms.¹
 That road is long and hard, leave it,
 Like Moses for a season cast away that staff.²
 Come for a season into the "Valley of Peace,"³
 Hear with faith the call, "Verily I am God."
 He that knows "The Truth,"⁴ and to whom Unity is revealed,
 Sees at the first glance the light of very Being.
- 85 Nay more, as he sees by illumination that pure Light,
 He sees God first in everything that he sees;
 Abstraction⁵ is a condition of good thinking,
 For then the lightning⁶ of divine guidance illumines us.
 To him, whom God guides not into the road,
 It will not be disclosed by use of logic.
 Forasmuch as the philosopher is bewildered,
 He sees in things nothing but the contingent;

² Koran, Sura XX. 14 and 11: "What is that in thy right hand, O Moses? He answered, It is my staff whereon I lean, and wherewith I beat down leaves for my flock. God said, Cast it down, O Moses! And he cast it down, and behold it became a serpent, which ran about And when he was come near unto it (the burning bush), a voice called to him, saying, O Moses, verily I am thy Lord, wherefore put off thy shoes, for thou art in the sacred Valley 'Towa.'"

³ I.e., the tarikah, or Sufi's progress and course of illumination which leads him to the true knowledge of God. L.

⁴ The Truth, Hakk, is the usual Sufi expression for the Absolute Divine Being.

⁵ Tajrid, stripping off, making bare, seclusion from the world, logical abstraction, purification from self. Lahiji explains it as 'Passing by the stages of carnal lusts, and mental operations, and human pleasures and relations, and emerging from the limitation of self, which veils man's real essence.' Similarly, Plotinus directs the mystical aspirant to 'simplify his nature,' that he may become identified with the infinite. And Dionysius, the pseudo-Areopagite, exhorts his disciple 'to abandon the senses and all operations of the intellect, all objects of sense and all objects of thought, and ignorantly to strive upwards towards union with Him who is above all essence and knowledge; inasmuch as by separation of himself from all things, he will be exalted to the super-essential radiance of the Divine darkness.'—Vaughan, Hours with the Mystics, I. 288.

- From the contingent he seeks to prove the necessary,
 Therefore is he bewildered at the essence of the necessary.
- 90 Sometimes he travels backwards in a circle,¹
 Sometimes he is imprisoned in the chain of proofs.
 While his reason goes deep into phenomenal existence,
 His feet are caught in the chain of proofs.
 All things are manifested through their likes,
 But "The Truth" has neither rival nor like,
 Since "The Truth" has neither rival nor peer,
 I know not how you can know Him.²
 Necessary matter has no sample in contingent :³
 How can man know it, tell me how ?⁴
- 95 Fool that he is ! for he seeks the blazing sun
 By the dim light of a torch in the desert.

ILLUSTRATION.⁵

If the sun tarried always in one position,
 And if his shining were all after one manner,

¹ He argues in a circle ; proves one contingent proposition by another contingent, which in its turn is proved by the first, and so on in an endless circle. L.

² Sense supplies us with finite objects only, and reason has only these finite objects to work on. It cannot transcend them, or mount from them to the infinite.

³ The figment of contingent being occurs for the first time in the fifth book of Plato's Republic. Being, he argues, is the object of knowledge, and not being of ignorance, and therefore opinion which lies between them must have an object of its own as well, and this object is intermediate or contingent being, which is and is not, and partakes both of existence and non-existence. On this Professor Jowett notes :—" Plato did not remark that the degrees of knowledge in the subject have nothing corresponding to them in the object. With him a word must answer to an idea, he could not conceive of an opinion which was an opinion about nothing."—Jowett's Plato, II. 59.

⁴ Compare Hafiz, Ode 355 (Brockhaus' edition):

' But how can our eyes behold Thee as Thou art ?

' As our sight is, so see we, and only in part.'

⁵ Tamsil, simile, analogy in logic. Schmölders (Documenta Philosophiæ Arabum). This illustration was probably suggested by Ghazzali. See Lewes, History of Philosophy, II. 51.

- None would know that these beams are from him,
 There would be no distinction between kernel and husk.
 Know the whole world is a beam of the light of "The Truth,"
 Yet "The Truth" within it is concealed from manifestation;¹
 And since the light of "The Truth" alters not nor varies,
 And is void of change and transitoriness,
 100 So you fancy that this world of itself is permanent
 And enduring always of its own nature.
 A man who relies on far-sighted reason²
 Has much bewilderment before him,
 From far-sightedness of overweening reason
 One derives philosophy, another the Incarnation.³
 Reason cannot endure the light of that face,
 Go! that you may behold it, seek another eye.
 Since the two eyes of the philosopher see double,⁴
 He is impotent to behold the unity of "The Truth."
 105 From blindness arose the doctrine of 'Assimilation,'⁵
 From one-eyedness that of God's remoteness.⁶
 From the same cause arose false and vain Metempsychosis,⁷

¹ Compare Tennyson, 'The Higher Pantheism':

'The sun, the moon, the stars, the seas, the hills and the plains,
 Are not these, O Soul, the vision of Him who reigns?
 Is not the vision He, tho' He be not that which He seems?'

² Far-sighted reason goes astray because it looks afar off for "The Truth," which is nearer to us than our neck vein.' L.

³ The philosopher regards necessary and contingent matter as two distinct entities, whereas there is only the 'One.' L.

⁶ Tanzih, declaring God to be without an equal, exalted above, and remote from matter.

⁷ Tanasukh, transmigration of souls.

Since it had its origin from defective sight.
 He is like one born blind, cut off from perfection,
 The man who follows the road of schism,¹
 Men of externals have ophthalmia in both eyes,²
 For they see in external objects naught but the external.
 The theologian³ who has no perception of Unitarianism⁴
 Is in utter darkness in clouds and bondage of dogmas;⁵
 110 Whatever each says about Unity, more or less,
 Affords a specimen of his own power of insight.
 The Divine Essence is freed from where, how, and why.⁶
*Let His glory be exalted above what men say of Him.*⁷

¹ The schismatics, or Mutazzalites, deny the eternity, baka, of God, and are therefore debarred from attaining to true insight into the verities of things. L.

² The men of externals (ahl i Zahir) are dominated by externals, and do not penetrate to "The Truth" within them. L.

³ The Mutakallamin, or scholastic theologians, are 'they who tread the road to Divine knowledge with the foot of logic and not of illumination.' L. Al-kalam is defined in the Dabistan as the science enabling one to confirm the truth of religion by logical demonstration, and thus corresponds to the scholasticism of mediæval Europe.

⁴ Tauhid, Unification, Unitarianism, belief in God's unity, acknowledging that all things are One. See Answer VII. and Hafiz (Brockhaus' edition), Ode 465 :

'Hafiz, when preaching unity, with Unitarian pen

Blot out and cancel every page that tells of spirits and men.'

In the Dabistan, chapter xi., is given a list of the principal technical terms of the Muhammadan faith, with their exoteric or ordinary meanings, and with the esoteric meanings given to them by Miyan Bayazid, a Punjabi Sufi. The work of Tauhid is said to be "To annihilate self in the absolute Truth, and to become eternal in the Absolute, and to be made one with the One, and to abstain from evil."

⁷ Koran, Sura XVI. 3: 'Let Him be exalted above the gods they join with Him.'

QUESTION II.

What sort of thought is the condition of my path ?
Wherefore is it sometimes a duty, sometimes a sin ?

ANSWER II.

- To think on the mercies is the condition of your path,¹
But to think on the essence of "The Truth" is grievous sin.
Thinking on the essence of "The Truth" is vain;
Know it is impossible to demonstrate the manifest.²
- 115 Since His works are manifested from His essence,
His essence is not manifested from His works.³
The whole universe is exposed to view by His light,—
But how is He exposed to view in the universe ?⁴
The light of His essence is not contained in phenomena,
For the glory of His majesty is exceeding great.
Let reason go, and abide in "The Truth."
The eye of a bat endures not the bright sun.
In that place where God's light is our guide,
What room is there for the message of Gabriel ?⁵
- 120 Though the angels stand hard by the throne,
They reach not the station, "I am with God."⁶

¹ Alluding to the Hadis, 'Think on the mercies of God, not on the essence of God.'

² Tahsil i hasil, "The Truth" is more general than His works, and thus demonstrating Him from His works is demonstrating the general and more known from the particular and less known. And again, knowledge of God is gained by illumination and intuition, and demonstration of ultimate facts of consciousness is impossible. L.

³ Aiat, texts, names of God, works or signs of God.

⁴ The face of "The Truth" is not displayed till all the illusory phenomena, which veil it, are annihilated. L. 'But is it unreasonable to confess that we believe in God not by reason of the nature which conceals him, but by reason of the supernatural in man which reveals him?'—Jacobi, quoted in Hamilton's Metaphysics, I. 40.

⁵ Gabriel was the "angel of revelation." See Koran, Sura II. 91.

⁶ This refers to the tradition, 'There are times when I am with God in such wise that neither highest angel nor prophet apostle can attain thereto.'

Like as His light utterly burns up the angels,¹
 So it burns up reason from head to foot.
 Reason's light applied to the very Light of lights,
 Is as the eye of the head applied to the sun.
 When the object seen is very near to the eye,
 The eye is darkened so that it cannot see it.²
 This blackness,³ if you know it, is the light of very Being;
 In the land of darkness is the well-spring of life.⁴
 125 Since the dark destroys the light of vision,
 Give up looking, for this is no place for looking.⁵
 What connection has the dust with the pure world?
 Its perception is impotence to perceive perception.⁶
 Blackness of face⁷ is not divorced from the contingent

² The mental bewilderment or darkness which occurs to the mystic is the light of Absolute Being approaching close to him. L.

⁴ Alluding to the "water of life" found by the prophet Khizr in the land of darkness.

⁶ The dust, i.e. the contingent is naught but the reflection in not being of Necessary Being, which in itself is pure from the stain of contingency and plurality. Therefore the contingent is impotent to perceive "The Truth" in the ordinary way, and its highest degree of perception is to be absorbed in the "The Truth," when its eyes are blinded by excess of light, and its vision is unconsciousness,—inability to be conscious of seeing. L.

⁷ Blackness of face=nothingness, not being. The contingent is naught but not being, and its highest perfection is to be conscious of this, and to annihilate self by absorption in "The Truth." L.

- Blackness of face in both worlds is poverty,¹
 Blackness is most precious, neither more nor less.
 What shall I say? since this saying is fine,
 'A light night that shineth in a dark day.'²
 130 On this place of witnessing which is the light of Epiphany,³
 I have much to say, but not to say it is best.

ILLUSTRATION.

- If you desire to behold the eye of the sun,
 You must make use of another body;
 Since the eye of the head has not strength enough,
 You may look on the brilliant sun in the water.
 Since its brightness shows less brightly therein,
 You can bear to look on it for a longer space.
 Not being⁴ is the mirror of absolute Being,
 Therein is reflected the shining of "The Truth."
 135 When Not being is set opposite to Being,
 It catches its reflection in a moment.
 That Unity is exposed to view in this plurality,
 Like as when you count one it becomes many.

¹ Referring to the Hadis, 'Poverty is my peace.' Poverty with the Sufis means self annihilation.

² This darkness is light, because it shows "The Truth," free from the veil of plurality. It shines in a day, i.e. the visible world of phenomena, but this day is dark because phenomena veil "The Truth." L.

³ Divine Epiphanies, such as that to Moses at the burning bush, and to Mohammad on the night of his ascension. See couplet 367.

⁴ 'Adm, privation of being, not being. The 'to me on' of the Eleatics, handed on to the Sufis through Plato, Plotinus and the Arabian philosophers. See Jami, Tuhfat-ul-Inrar. Mokamat, I.:—

'In its cradle lay with suspended breath
 The infant of creation in the sleep of not being.
 The eyes of that Beauty seeing what was not
 Beheld the non-existent as existent.
 Though he beheld in His own perfections
 The beauties of all things and their qualities,
 Yet He desired that in another mirror
 They might be displayed to His view.'

- Though all numbers have one for their starting point,
 Nevertheless you never come to the end of them.
 Forasmuch as Not being in itself is pure,
 Therein is reflected 'The hidden treasure.'
 Read the tradition 'I was a hidden treasure,'¹
 That you may see clearly this concealed mystery.
- 140 Not being is the mirror, the world the reflection, and man
 Is as the reflected eye of The unseen Person.
 You are that reflected eye, and He the light of the eye,
 In that eye His eye sees His own eye.²
 The world is a man and man is a world :³
 There is no clearer explanation than this.
 When you look well into the root of this matter,
 He is at once seer, seeing eye, and thing seen.
 The holy tradition⁴ has declared this,
 And, 'without eye or ear,' demonstrated it.
- 145 Know the world is a mirror from head to foot,⁵
 In every atom are a hundred blazing suns.
 If you cleave the heart of one drop of water,
 A hundred pure oceans emerge from it.
 If you examine closely each grain of dust,
 A thousand Adams may be seen in it.

² Compare a somewhat similar passage in the Khândogya Upanishad, VIII., 7—12, quoted in Max Müller's Hibbert Lectures, 318—321. 'Man,' says Lahiji, 'is the eye of the world, whereby God sees his own works.' Compare Hegel. M. Müller, Hibbert Lectures, 20.

³ Man, being the epitome of all the Divine names and qualities, is the microcosm, and the world is 'the great man,' because it bears to man, 'the eye of the world,' the relation of a man to one of his members. L. Compare George Herbert :—

'Man is one world, and hath another to attend him.'

⁵ Through this process of reflection every atom is potentially a mirror of any and all the Divine names and qualities, and when any atom puts off its limitation and phenomenal character it becomes "the All." L.

- In its members a gnat is like an elephant,
 In its qualities a drop of rain is like the Nile.
 The heart of a barley-corn equals a hundred harvests,
 A world dwells in the heart of a millet seed.
- 150 In the wing of a gnat is the ocean of life,¹
 In the pupil of the eye a heaven.
 What though the corn grain of the heart² be small,
 It is a station for the Lord of both worlds to dwell therein.
 Therein are gathered the two worlds,
 Sometimes Iblis and sometimes Adam.³
 Behold the world mingled together,
 Angels with demons, Satan with the archangel.
 All mingled like unto seed and fruit,
 Infidel with faithful, and faithful with infidel.
- 155 Together are gathered, in the point of the present,⁴
 All cycles and seasons, day, month, and year.
 World without beginning is world without end,
 The mission of Jesus falls with the creation of Adam.⁵
 From every point in this concatenated circle
 A thousand forms are drawn;
 Every point as it revolves in a circle
 Is now a centre, now a circling circumference.⁶

² The heart's core,—the drop of black blood in the heart, supposed by Muhammadans to be the principle of life. L.

³ Adam is a manifestation of the Divine beauty, jamal, and Iblis of Divine majesty and wrath, jalah. L.

⁴ Compare :

‘Nothing is there to come, and nothing past,
 But an eternal now does always last.’

Cowley, Davideis, I. 302.

⁵ The last event in Divine history coincides in point of time with the first. All things, whatever the times of their manifestations, are present together in God. There is no time in God. L.

⁶ There is one great circle of emanations down to man, and back to God, and smaller circles caused by each particular emanation having a course of its own, e.g., universal reason revolves in all particular reasons. Each link is potentially all, and hence destruction of one is destruction of all. L.

- If you take one atom link from its place
 The entire universe falls to ruin.
- 160 The whole in a dizzy whirl, and yet no single part
 Placing foot beyond the limit of contingency,
 Phenomenal being¹ holding each one in bondage,
 Each is in despair at its particularization from the Whole.
 You may say each is ever travelling and yet restrained,
 Each is ever being unclothed and clothed upon;²
 Each is alway in motion, yet ever at rest,
 Never beginning and never ending.
 Each ever cognizant of his own essence, and for that cause
 Ever pressing his way towards the throne on high.
- 165 Beneath the veil of each atom is hidden
 The heart-ravishing beauty of the Beloved's face!

RULE I.³

You have heard thus much of the universe,
 Come, say what you have seen of the universe.
 What know you of form or of substance?
 What is the next world, and what is this world?
 Say what is Simurg, and what mount Kaf,⁴
 What heaven and hell, and hades⁵ what?

¹ Ta'ayyun, phenomenalization or emanation, evidentiality. See note on couplet 273 and couplet 484.

³ These rules are an elaboration of the thesis that knowledge of the Truth is to be attained not by sense and reason but by illumination. L.

⁴ Simurg, a fabulous bird, said to dwell on Mount Kaf, or Caucasus,—the type of Supreme Being and plurality in Unity.

⁵ Al'araf or Barzakh, the partition, veil, or "barrier" between death and the resurrection, or between this world and the next, a hades or purgatory, in which the dead are examined by Munkir and Nakir.—Sale, Koran, Prelim. Disc. 55, and Sura XXIII. 102.

- What is that world which is not seen,
 One day whereof equals a year of this world ?
 170 That world, in fine, is not what you see.
 Have you not heard the text, 'What ye see not?'¹
 Come, show me what is Jabulca,²
 What that city whose name is Jabulsa.
 Consider the East along with the West,
 For this world contains no more than one of each.³
 Come and hear the meaning of 'like unto them;'⁴
 Hear it from Ibn Abbas, and then know yourself!
 You are asleep, and this vision of yours is a dream,
 All that you see thereby is an illusion.
 175 On the morn of the last day, when you shall awake,
 You will know all this to be the baseless fabric of fancy.
 When the illusion of seeing double is removed,
 Earth and heavens will become transfigured.
 When the true Sun displays his face to you⁵
 There remains not the light of Venus, moon or sun.
 Falls one beam of His on the hard rock,
 It is torn to pieces like wool of divers colours.⁶
 Know now is the time that you have power to act :
 What profit is there in knowing, when you are powerless ?⁷

³ Sense tells us nothing of the unseen worlds. L.

⁴ See Slane's Ibn Khallikan, i. 89, note. The saying referred to is, "If I explained to you the verse, 'God created seven heavens and earths like unto them' ye would stone me, or call me unbeliever." See Koran, Sura LXV. 12.

⁵ The Father of lights.—James i. 17.

⁶ 'On that day the mountains shall become like carded wool of divers colours.'—Koran, Sura CI. 4.

⁷ Man by reason of the universality of his nature, i.e. his comprehending in himself all the divers names and attributes of "The Truth," is capable of apprehending Divine Epiphanies, and attaining to knowledge of "The Truth," and should set himself to do this while his powers are in their prime. L.

- 180 How shall I tell the tale of 'states' of heart¹
 To you, O man, with head downcast and feet in the mire ?
 The world is yours and yet you remain indigent.
 Has man ever seen one so pitiable as you are ?
 Like captives you are confined to one spot,
 Binding your feet with your own helpless hand.
 You sit like women in the street of ill fortune,
 You take no shame to yourself for your ignorance.
 The valiant of the world are rolling in carnage ;
 You, with head wrapped up, put not forth your foot.
- 185 How read you the text, "old woman's creed,"
 That you hold ignorance to be lawful for you ?
 Whereas "women are wanting in intellect and faith,"²
 Why should men choose their road ?
 If you are a man, come forth and pass on,
 Whatever hinders you, pass aside by it.
 Tarry not day or night at the halting places,³
 Linger not behind your fellow travellers and camels.
 Like 'The Friend of God,' go seek "The Truth,"⁴
 Turn night into day and day into night.⁵
- 190 Stars with moon and most brilliant sun
 Represent sense, imagination and brilliant reason.⁶
 Turn your face from all these, O pilgrim,
 Say alway, 'I love not them that set.'

¹ I.e. ecstatic states in which Divine Epiphanies and visions are displayed to the heart. L.

² There is another tradition, "an old woman's creed is yours." Lahiji says it is mere bondage, taklid, mechanical religion, cant. Compare 1 Tim. iv. 7, 'old wives' fables.'

³ Compare Hafiz, Ode I.

⁴ "And when the night overshadowed him, Abraham saw a star and he said, 'This is my Lord;' but when it set, he said, 'I like not gods which set.' And when he saw the moon rising, he said, 'This is my Lord;' but when he saw it set, he said, 'Verily, if my Lord direct me not, I shall become one of them that go astray.'"—Koran, Sura VI. 77.

⁶ Hiss i mushtarak, the koine aisthesis of Aristotle.

Like Moses, son of Amran, press onwards in this road,
 Till you hear the words, 'Verily I am God.'¹
 So long as the mount of your being remains² before you,
 The answer to 'Show me' is 'Thou shalt not see me.'³
 "The Truth," as amber, attracts you like a straw.
 If there were no mount of "youness," where were the road?⁴
 195 When its Lord appears in glory to the mount of existence,
 Existence is laid low, even as the dust of the road.
 The beggar becomes by one attraction a king,
 In one instant it makes the mount as a straw.⁵
 Follow the steps of the prophet in his ascension,
 Marvel at all the mighty signs.⁶
 Come forth from the dwelling of Umhāni,⁷
 Say only, "Whoso hath seen me hath seen The Truth."⁸
 Forsake the Kaf of the corner of both worlds,
 Sit on mount Kaf at "the distance of two bows' lengths."⁹

² The mount, i.e. phenomenal illusive existence, which hides real absolute Being. L.

⁵ The attraction of Divine graces enriches the fakir or beggar (i.e. the man who is 'poor in spirit' and stripped of self), with the wealth of union with the Absolute. L.

⁶ I.e. Divine Epiphanies. L.

And show you all things as they really are.¹

RULE II.

- To him, whose soul attains the beatific vision,²
The universe is the book of "The Truth Most High."
Accidents are its vowels, and substance its consonants,
And grades of creatures its verses and pauses.
Therein every world is a special chapter,
One the chapter Fatihah, another Ikhlas.
Of this book the first verse is 'Universal Reason,'³
For that is like the B of Bismillah ;
205 Second comes "Universal Soul," 'the verse of light,'⁴
For that is as a lamp of exceeding light ;
The third verse thereof is "Highest heaven."⁵

two bows' length from Him in heaven."—Koran, Sura LIII. 9. Mount Kaf was the abode of the Simurg, the type of Absolute Being.

² The author here describes the successive "emanations" of Divinity under the figure of the successive chapters of the Koran. The Alexandrian doctrine of "emanations"—intermediate potencies or intelligences by whom God acts on the world of phenomena—"links between the Divine spirit and the world of matter,"—seems to have sprung from an amalgamation of the ancient Persian angelology—the Amshaspands, Izads, and Fravashis,—with Greek Ontology, the "ideas" of Plato, the logos of Philo, the nous of Plotinus. (See Deutsch. Remains, p. 50, and Mansel, Gnostic Heresies, p. 26). This doctrine pervades the entire Neoplatonist philosophy, and the writings of the Gnostics, (see Ueberweg, Greek Philosophy, I. 224), and re-appears in the systems of the Muhammadan philosophers Al Farabi, 950 A.D., Avenpace, circ. 1118 A.D., and Averroes, circ. 1150 A.D. (Ueberweg, I. pp. 412—417), and in the Jewish Kabbala.

⁵ Koran, Sura VII. 55, 'arsh, or heaven of heavens.

- Read the fourth verse, it is "The throne;"¹
 After that are the seven heavenly spheres,
 The "chapter of the seven limbs" answers to these.²
 After these, behold the bodies of the four elements,
 Whereof each answers to its respective verse.
 After these come the three kingdoms of nature,
 Whose verses you cannot count.
- 210 The last that came down was the soul of man,³
 And thus the Koran ends with the chapter "Men."

RULE III.

THOUGHTS ON THE HEAVENS.

- Rest not in bondage in the prison of nature,
 Come forth and behold the divine handiwork.
 Consider the structure of the heavens,
 So that you may praise "The Truth" for His signs.⁴
 Look up and see how the vault of "highest heaven"⁵
 Is stretched round about both worlds.
 Wherefore do they name it "throne of the Merciful?"
 What connection has it with the heart of man?⁶
- 215 Wherefore are these two continually in motion,
 Never for a moment taking rest?
 Peradventure the heart is the centre of that heaven,
 Heart the central point and heaven the circumference.⁷

² Sura I., which contains seven divisions, or the seven chapters from Bakrat to Taubat. Seven heavens are mentioned in the Talmud, and the 'third heaven' is mentioned in 2 Corinthians xii. 2. Compare Sura II. 27: "Into seven heavens did He fashion it."

³ Nazil, 'coming down,' is the term for the revelation of a verse in the Koran.

⁴ Or, 'in verses of the Koran.' L.

⁵ I. e., 'arsh, the ninth heaven.

⁶ Alluding to the Hadis: "The heart of the believer is the highest heaven." The 'arsh and the heart of man are both theatres of Divine perfections, and the 'arsh, as the less perfect, may be subsidiary to the heart, the more perfect theatre. L. See couplet 652.

⁷ See couplet 796.

- In the space of one day and night, more or less,
 Highest heaven surpasses your circuits, O Durvesh !¹
 Moved by this the other heavenly spheres are circling :
 Mark well how they all move in one direction.
 From east to west, like a water-wheel,
 They are ever hastening, without food or sleep.
- 220 Each day and night this highest sphere
 Makes a complete revolution round the world.
 Moved by this, the other heavenly spheres
 Are revolving in circular orbits in like manner,
 But contrary to the rotation of the crystalline sphere,²
 These eight lower spheres revolve crookedly.³
 The Ecliptic holds the signs of the zodiac,⁴
 In them is no interval nor any interstice.
 Aries and Taurus, and Gemini and Cancer,
 Are hung upon it with Leo and Virgo.⁵
- 225 Then Libra and Scorpio, then Sagittarius,
 Capricorn, and Aquarius, and then the sign Pisces,
 The fixed stars are one thousand twenty and four,
 Who have their stations round about the " throne." ⁶

¹ Alluding to the taw'af, or perambulations of shrines made by Durweshes. L.

⁴ The Ecliptic is also called the 'girdle' of the 'throne,' or eighth sphere. L.

⁵ Virgo, Khushah, which also means a bunch of grapes, and is therefore said to be hung up. L.

⁶ The eighth heaven.

- Of the seventh heaven Saturn is the watchman,
 The sixth is the mansion and house of Jupiter,
 The fifth heaven is the house of Mars,
 The fourth of the Sun, adorning of the earth,
 The third of Venus, the second of Mercury :
 The Moon holds its orbit on the sphere of the Earth.
- 230 The house of Saturn is in Capricorn and Aquarius,
 Jupiter waxes and wanes in Sagittarius and Pisces.¹
 In Aries and Scorpio is found the place of Mars,
 In Leo is the Sun's place of rest ;
 Like as Venus makes her house in Taurus and Libra,
 So does Mercury abide in Gemini and Virgo.
 The Moon sees in Cancer a creature akin to herself,
 When head becomes tail she assumes the form of a knot.²
 The Moon passes through eight and twenty mansions,³
 And then she returns opposite to the Sun.⁴
- 235 Then she becomes like to a crooked palm-branch,⁵
 By command of the Almighty who is Allwise.
 If you think on this, as a perfect man,
 Assuredly you will say, 'All this is not vain.'⁶
 The words of "The Truth" are clear on this point,⁷
 That to call this vain is weakness of faith.

¹ The "houses" of the planets are those signs of the zodiac in which they attain their maximum ascension. L.

² The points where the moon's orbit cuts the ecliptic are called 'knots,' and the portions of her orbit north and south of the ecliptic are called respectively the "head" and "tail of the dragon." L.

⁴ I. e. becomes full. L.

⁵ I. e. in her last quarter. L.

⁶ "The course of nature is the art of God."—Young, Night Thoughts, IX. 1267.

⁷ Batil, 'Vain, what is without God.'—Istilahat us Sufiat, p. 14. Koran, Sura III. 138 : "Think on the creation of the heavens and the earth. Have we created them in vain?"

- O fool, the body of a gnat enshrines wisdom,¹
 Then how is there no wisdom in Mercury and Mars ?
 Albeit if you look into the roots of this matter,
 You see the heavens subject to the Almighty.²
 240 When the astrologer is destitute of religion, and says
 That starry influences proceed from the heavenly motions,³
 He sees not that these revolving heavens
 Are all under the sway and dominion of "The Truth."

ILLUSTRATION.

- You may say these heavens are revolving
 In the rotation of day and night like a potter's wheel.
 And thereby every moment the wisdom of the Master
 Fashions a new vessel out of water and clay.
 Whatever exists in time and in space
 Proceeds from one master hand, one workshop.
 245 The stars, who are of the people of perfection,⁴
 Wherefore are they always undergoing the defect of setting ?
 Why are they continually varying in position,
 In place and orbit, in colour and size ?
 Why are they now in Nadir, now in Zenith ?
 Sometimes in opposition, sometimes in conjunction ?
 Wherefore again is the heart of heaven fretted with fire ?
 What does it desire that it is always in a whirl ?
 All the planets circling round in search of this,
 Sometimes above, sometimes beneath the earth ?
 250 The elements water, air, fire and earth

² On the one hand it is wrong to deny the wisdom manifested in the structure of the heavens, and on the other hand it is equally wrong to say with the astrologer that they are self moved, and govern things on earth. L.

³ Compare "The sweet influences of the Pleiades." Job xxxviii. 31.

⁴ This idea is found in Aristotle. Nicom. Eth. vi. 7. 4. The perfection of a star is its ascension, and its defect its setting. L.

- Each serving diligently in its own appointed place,
 Before or behind which it never sets its foot.
 Though all four are contrary in their nature and position,
 Still one may see them ever united together.¹
 Inimical are they to each other in essence and form
 Yet united into single bodies by fiat of necessity.²
 From them is born the three-fold kingdom of Nature,
 Minerals, then plants, then animals,
 255 Setting up substance in their midst,³
 As Sufis becoming pure from form.⁴
 All at the command and by favour of the Master,
 Standing in their places subject to His will,
 The minerals by His wrath laid low in the dust,
 The plants by His favour standing erect,
 The sexual passion of animals with ardour unfeigned
 Preserving their genera, species, and individuals,
 All confessing the rule of their Master,
 Searching out His will day and night !

RULE IV.

THOUGHTS ON SOULS.

- 260 Ponder well once for all on your own origin,
 Your first mother had a father who was also her mother.⁵
 Behold the world entirely comprised in yourself,

¹ I.e., in compound bodies. All these are proofs of the entire subjection of all things to one primal agent, "The Truth." L.

² Compare Burke: "From the reciprocal struggle of discordant powers is drawn out the harmony of the universe."

⁴ When the simple elements are united into compounds, each element drops its own 'form,' and is blended with the others into one common substance. L.

⁵ Universal Reason, the first emanation from the Absolute, is likened to Adam; and Universal Soul, the second emanation, to Eve, since Universal Soul was evolved out of Universal Reason, like Eve out of Adam's rib. L.

- That which was made last was first in thought.¹
 The last that was made was the soul of Adam,
 The two worlds were a means to his production.
 There is no other final cause beyond man,
 It is disclosed in man's own self.²
 The black hearted and the fool are the opposites of light
 Yet are they the theatres of the true epiphany.³
 265 When the back of a mirror is blackened,
 It will reflect a man's face from its face ;⁴
 And the rays of the sun in the fourth heaven
 Are not reflected till they fall on the dust of earth.
 You are the reflection of " The Adored of angels,"
 For this cause are you worshipped of angels.⁵
 Each creature that goes before you has a soul,
 And from that soul is bound a cord to you.⁶
 Therefore are they all subject to your dominion,
 For that the soul of each one is hidden in you,
 270 You are the kernel of the world in the midst thereof,
 Know yourself that you are the world's soul.

² All things were created as subsidiary to man, but man is an end in himself, and not a means to any further end. L.

³ This refers to Koran, Sura XXXIII. 72 : ' Verily, we proposed a deposit to the heavens, and to the earth, and to the mountains between them, but they refused the burden, and we entrusted it to man, who is unjust (or 'dark') and foolish.' This deposit is the duty of displaying the Divine attributes, and man does this through the universality of his nature, containing "the fullness of the Godhead." He is good on one side and evil on the other,— "created half to rise and half to fall." The good represents the beautiful attributes of God (jamal), and the evil the terrible attributes (jalal). L.

⁴ Man, the mirror of Divinity, is on one side blackened with the darkness of Not Being, in order to reflect Very Being. L.

⁵ "And He said unto the angels, 'Worship Adam,' and they all worshipped him except Iblis."—Koran, Sura II. 32.

⁶ The 'essence of man,' or Universal Reason, is the soul which animates all things, and forms the bond of mystical union between them and man. L.

- The north quarter of the world is your dwelling place,¹
 Because the heart is on the left side of the body.
 The world of reason and mind is your stock in trade,
 Earth and heavens are your vesture.
 Behold this Not being which is the evidence² of Being,
 See this height how it is the essence of depth.³
 Your natural powers are ten thousand,⁴
 Your volitions transcend limits and counting.
- 275 For that cause is each man⁵ furnished with instruments,
 With limbs, members, and sinews.
 Physicians become bewildered at these,
 And stand amazed at the anatomy of man.
 Not one has mastered this science,
 Who does not avow his ignorance thereof.
 His limit and portion are appointed to each by "The Truth,"
 Each arises from and returns to one Name.⁶
 In that name each creature has its being,
 To that name it is ever giving praise ;
- 280 At its beginning each proceeds from that source,
 At its return that is its door of departure.
 By the door whereat each enters, it departs,
 Though in its lifetime each wanders from door to door.⁷

³ 'Universal Reason,' the first emanation, is also the "essence of man," the lowest emanation. L.

⁵ Or "each power." L.

⁶ Each creature or each power reflects some one of the Divine names or attributes. From this name each is first manifested and to this it returns. L.

⁷ Mubda, beginning or origin, is said to be the stage of wajud i 'ilmiat ; ma'ash,

Hence you learn all the names of God,
 For that you are an image reflected from "The Named."¹
 Power and Knowledge and Will are shown forth
 In you, O slave of the Lord of bliss!
 You are the Hearing, Seeing, Living, Speaking,
 Yet you endure not of yourself but of Him!
 285 O first who are also the essence of the last!
 O inner who are also the essence of the outward!²
 You day and night are cogitating about yourself,
 It is most meet that you should think on self no more,³
 Since the end of thought is bewilderment,⁴
 This discourse on thought ends at this point.

QUESTION III.

What am I? tell me what "I" means?
 What is the meaning of "Travel into yourself?"⁵

ANSWER III.

Again you question me, saying, "What am I?"
 Give me news of myself as to what "I" means.
 290 When Absolute Being has to be indicated lifetime or sustenance, that of wajud i 'ayni, i.e. the Divine ideas evolved to view. Mu'ad, return, is the retrocession of the creature back to wajud i 'ilmiat. Each creature wanders about during its manifestation in forgetfulness of its origin. L.

⁵ Alluding to the Hadis—'Whoso knows himself knows his Lord.' Introrsum ascendere has been the watchword of mystics in all ages.

Men use the word "I" to express it.
 When "The Truth" is set in evidence in a phenomenon
 You express it by the word "I,"¹
 "I" and "you" are the accidents² of Very Being.
 The lattices of the niches of the lamp of Necessary Being.³
 Know bodies and spirits are all the One Light,
 Now shining from mirrors, now from torches.
 You say "The word 'I' in every connection"
 "Indicates the reasonable soul of man;"

- 295 But as you have made human intellect your guide,
 You do not know your 'self' from one of your parts,
 Go, O master, and know well your 'self,'
 For fatness does not resemble an empty tumour.⁴
 "I" and "you" are higher than body and soul,
 For both body and soul are parts of "me."
 The word "I" is not limited to man,
 So that you should say it means only the soul.⁵
 Straightway lift yourself above time and space,⁶
 Quit the world and be yourself a world for yourself.⁷

³ Alluding to Koran, Sura XXIV. 35: 'Allah is the light of the heavens and the earth, and the likeness of His light is as a lamp, wherein is a torch, and the torch in a glass, and the glass shining as a star with the oil of a blessed tree.' Bodies are likened to mirrors, and spirits to torches.

⁴ Fatness, i. e. the real knowledge gained by illumination, is not like the empty puffed up conceit of intellect. L.

⁵ 'I' and 'You' are the theatres of Absolute Being in its entirety, whereas body and soul are exponents of single Divine attributes only. L.

⁷ Here begins the answer to the second clause of the question. It is to become annihilated (fani) in your 'self,' and enduring (baki) in God. L.

- 300 By the imaginary line of the H of the "He"¹
 Are produced two eyes at the time He looks forth.²
 But there remain not in the midst pilgrim or road,
 When this H of the "He" is joined to the H in Allah.
 Necessary Being is as Heaven and Hell as contingent,
 "I" and "you" are the Hades veil between them.³
 When this veil is lifted up from before you,⁴
 There remains not the bond of sects and creeds.
 All the authority of the law is over this "I" of yours,
 Since that is bound to your soul and body.⁵
- 305 When "I" and "you" remain not in the midst,
 What is mosque, what is synagogue, what is fire temple?
 Phenomenal being is as the dot on 'ayn,
 When 'ayn is clear, ghayn becomes 'ayn.⁶
 The journey of the pilgrim is two steps and no more,
 Although it is beset by divers perils.
 One step is the passing out from that H of "He,"⁷

¹ *Huwiya*t, 'Ipseity.' (Sprenger, Risalah Shamsiyah, p. 7.) Hu, He=God; Yahu=Jehovah (Shea's Dabistan, III. 222, note).

⁴ The Sufis call whatever opposes perfect union with the Divinity a "veil." See a saying of Junaid quoted in his life in Nafhat ul uns, p. 92.

⁷ I. e. (1) passing by self-annihilation (fana) back to Absolute Being from

The second is passing over the field of existence.
In this holy vision plurality and individuals are one,¹
Like one which pervades all numbers.

- 310 You are that plurality which becomes very Unity²
You are that Unity which becomes very plurality.
A man may know this mystery when he passes forth
From the part, and travels up to the whole.

QUESTION IV.

Of what sort is this traveller, who is this wayfarer ?
Of whom shall I say that he is the perfect man ?

ANSWER IV.

Again you ask 'Who is the traveller on the road ?'
It is he who is acquainted with his own origin.
He is a traveller who passes on with haste,
And becomes pure from self as fire from smoke.

- 315 Know his journey is a progress of revelation from the contingent
To the necessary, leading away from darkness and defect.³
He travels back his first journey, stage after stage,
Till he attains the grade of the perfect man.⁴

phenomenal being, and (2) enduring (baka) in mystical union with Absolute Being, and with Him being in turn manifested in plurality.

"They say the road is two steps, severing and uniting ;

You are united to the ' Friend,' when severed from self." L.

² In virtue of man's 'journey to God' he is plurality in Unity, and in virtue of his 'journey with God from God' he is carried down again into plurality. L.

⁴ In the last answer Mahmud spoke of 'the journey up to God,' and that 'down from God with God.' Here he mentions another journey or descent, anterior to the other two, viz. that of man's first extrusion from Unity into phenomenal plurality.

RULE I.¹

- Know first how the perfect man is produced
 From the time he is first engendered.
 He is produced at first as inanimate matter,
 Next by the added spirit he is made sentient,²
 And acquires the motive powers from the Almighty.
 Next he is made lord of will by "The Truth."
 320 In childhood opens out perception of the world,
 And the temptations of the world act upon him.³
 When all the particular parts are ordered in him
 He makes his way from these sources to general notions.⁴
 Anger is born in him, and lust of the flesh,
 And from these spring avarice, gluttony, pride.
 Evil dispositions come into operation.
 He becomes worse than an animal, a demon, a brute.
 In his descent this point is the very lowest,
 For it is the point directly opposite to Unity.
 325 Of actions there arises an endless plurality,
 He is thus directly opposed to his beginning.
 If he remains imprisoned in this snare,
 He goes astray worse than the beasts.⁵

¹ This rule, after shortly sketching man's 'descent' into the world of phenomena, describes his upward 'journey to God'—from the lowest point in the circle of being, up again to the highest point.

² 'Added spirit.' Lahiji doubts whether this means the animal soul or vital principle, or the human soul. This doctrine of the three ascending grades of the soul, vegetive, animal and human, was first enunciated by Aristotle, and is reproduced in the 'Ayun ul Masail and other works. So Dryden (Palamon and Arcite, III. sub fin.), says that man is

"First vegetive, then feels, and reasons last,
 Rich of three souls, and lives all three to waste."

⁴ When particular sensations and perceptions are acquired, reason deduces general notions from them. L.

⁵ Koran, Sura VII. 178. Compare "In Memoriam," 117, 7 :

"Move upward, working out the beast,
 And let the ape and tiger die."

- But if from the spirit world there shines a light
 From the attraction of grace or reflection of proof,¹
 Then his heart has fellowship with the light of "The Truth,"
 And he turns back along the road which he came.
 From that divine attraction or certain proof
 He finds his way to assured faith.
- 330 He arises from the seventh hell of the wicked,
 He sets his face towards the seventh heaven of the righteous;
 Then is he clothed with the quality of repentance,²
 And is made one chosen among the children of Adam.³
 From evil deeds he becomes pure,
 Like Idris the prophet he is caught up to heaven.
 When he obtains release from evil habits,
 He becomes thereby like Noah a saviour of his own life.
 The power of his 'parts' remains not in the 'Whole,'
 And like "the Friend of God" he acquires trust in God.⁴
- 335 His will is joined with the pleasure of "The Truth,"
 And like Moses he enters the highest door.
 He obtains release from his own knowledge,
 And like the prophet Jesus he becomes near to God,⁵
 He gives up his existence utterly to be plundered,
 And in the steps of the "Most Pure" he ascends.⁶
 But when his last point is joined to his first,
 There is no entrance for angel or for prophet.⁷

² Taubat, repentance, or returning to God, has four stages, viz. turning (1) from unbelief, (2) from evil actions, (3) from evil habits, (4) from all but God. L.

³ See note on couplet 545.

⁴ I.e. he attains fāna, utter effacement and annihilation of self,—obliteration of all consciousness and perception of the external phenomenal world,—immersion of the soul in the ocean of Divine glory. This state of fāna involves the effacement of his individual power, will, knowledge and entire existence, as set forth in this and the three following couplets. L.

⁵ See Koran, Sura III. 40. 'He has near access to God.'

⁶ I. e. Muhammad.

⁷ Referring to the Hadis, quoted under couplet 120.

ILLUSTRATION.¹

- The prophet is as a sun, the saint as a moon
 Is set over against him in the point ' I am with God.'
- 340 Prophethood is resplendent in its own perfection,
 The saintship therein is manifest and not hidden.
 But the saintship in a saint is concealed,
 Whereas in a prophet it is shown forth openly.
 When a saint by obedience obtains fellowship,
 And intimacy with the prophet in saintship ;²
 Then from the text ' If ye love God' he finds entrance
 To that secret chamber ' God will love you.'³
 In that secret chamber he is beloved,
 He becomes altogether 'drawn'⁴ to "The Truth."
- 345 The saint is obedient as to his essence,
 He is a devotee in the street of essence,⁵
 Howbeit his work is finished at the time
 That his end is joined again to his beginning ?⁶

ANSWER IV.—Continued.

He is a perfect man who in all perfection
 Does the work of a slave⁷ in spite of his lordliness.

¹ Saintship, waliyat, i. e. drawing near to God by effacement of self, is common to saints and prophets ; but while prophets have to preach, saints have only to obey. L.

² As an intimate, muhrim, he obtains entrance to the haram.

³ Koran, Sura III. 29.

⁴ Majzub i mutlak is the appellation of the Sufi in the stage of fana.

⁵ Though absorbed in "The Truth" he is still obedient as regards his essence, because by obedience he attained his exaltation. L.

⁶ Here 'beginning' means the state of phenomenal existence, and 'end' the state of absorption in the Absolute. The saint first accomplishes 'the journey to God,' ending in absorption (fana) and abiding or eternal life in God (baka), and then journeys down again to his beginning in the 'journey from God along with God,' and is conscious that he is Unity in plurality. L.

⁷ Servitude, obedience, 'abudiyat, is the characteristic quality of a saint.—Shea's Dabistan, III. 241, note. In his downward journey the saint must observe and obey the positive law, notwithstanding his previous union with Allah. L.

Afterwards, when he has finished his course,
 "The Truth" sets on his head the crown of Khalifate.¹
 He finds eternal life after dying to self, and again
 He runs another course from his end to his beginning.
 350 He makes the law his upper garment,
 He makes the mystic path his inner garment.
 But know very truth is the station of his nature,
 He comprehends both infidelity and faith.
 Being endued with fair virtues,
 And famed for knowledge, devotion and piety,
 All these in him, but he far from all these,
 Overshadowed beneath the canopy of Divine Epiphanies.²

ILLUSTRATION.³

The kernel of an almond is utterly spoiled,
 If you pluck it from its husk while it is unripe.
 355 But when it grows ripe in its husk, it is good ;
 If you pluck out its kernel, you break the husk.
 The law is the husk, and the truth is the kernel,
 The mystic path lies between this and that.
 Error in the traveller's path is spoiling of the kernel,
 When the kernel is ripe it is good without its husk.
 When the knower experiences certain assurance,⁴
 The kernel becomes ripe, and bursts the husk.
 His being remains not in this world,
 He departs, and returns again no more.
 360 Another shines as a bright sun still retaining the husk,⁵

When in this state he makes another circuit.
 From water and earth he springs up into a tree,
 Whose branches are lifted up above the heavens.¹
 The same brings forth in his turn another seed,
 One yielding a hundred fold by fiat of the Almighty.
 Like the growth of a seed into the line of a tree,
 From point comes a line, and from line again a circle.
 When the pilgrim has finished the circuit of this circle,
 Then his last point is joined to his first.

365 Again he may be likened to a pair of compasses,
 Ending in the same impression whence they began.²
 When he has finished his course to the end,
 "The Truth" sets on his head the crown of Khalifate.
 These circuits are not transmigrations of souls, for verily
 They are manifested in the visions of Epiphanies,³
 'Verily they ask, saying, what is the end,
 And the answer is the return to the beginning.'⁴

 And its perfection was in the 'Seal of the prophets.'⁶ intoxication,' and carrying with them "The Truth," descend to phenomenal being, and in that descent fulfil all the duties of the law as an ensample to others. L.

¹ "The Truth," like a kernel or seed embodied in the 'knower,' comes down as a shining light or pattern to the phenomenal world, though still retaining the husk of the law. This seed is sown in the good soil of his disciples, and springs upon them into a tree, which again is lifted up to heaven, i.e. repeats the same circuit up to Allah. L.

- 370 Saintship lingers behind while it makes a journey,
 And like a point makes another circuit in the world.¹
 Its entirety will be seen in the 'Seal of the saints,'
 In him will be completed the circuit of the world.²
 Individual saints are as it were his members,
 For he is the whole and they are the parts.
 Since he holds close relation to our lord,
 Through him will be shown mercy most complete.³
 He will be the Imam of both worlds,
 He will be the Khalif of the children of Adam.

- 375 When the light of the sun is divided from the night,
 You see its dawn and up-rising and full ascension.
 Again from the circling of the revolving heavens
 Declension and afternoon and sunset are seen.
 The light of the prophet is a mighty sun,⁵
 Now shining in Moses, now in Adam.
 If you read the chronicles of the world,
 You will know clearly its several degrees.
 From this sun every moment is cast a shadow,
 Which is one degree in the ascension of faith.
- 380 The time of our lord is the meridian line,⁶
 For he is purified from all shadow of darkness.
 On the meridian line he stands upright,

¹ When prophecy ceased with Muhammad, saintship alone remained, and made the circuit of the world in the persons of the various saints. L.

² Muhammad Mehdi, the twelfth Imam, who will appear at the end of the world.

³ Koran, Sura XXI. 107: "We have not sent thee, but as a mercy to all creatures."

⁴ On the relation of the minor prophets to Muhammad, and the minor saints to Muhammad Mehdi. L.

⁵ I.e. Muhammad. He is said to be Ruh i 'azam, 'Akl i kull, and hakikat i insani, that is, the first emanation from Deity; and the minor prophets are thus emanations from him. Hence he is compared to the Sun, because 'the first thing God emitted was light.' L.

⁶ When the sun is on the meridian, at the time of the equinox, there are no shadows in countries near the Equator. L. Compare Dante, Purgatorio, XXX. 89.

Since he stands on the 'narrow way' "of The Truth,"¹

And takes his stand on the command 'Be steadfast.'²

He casts no shadow, for that involves darkness.

Hail, O Light of God, O shadow of Divinity!

His *Kibla*³ is between east and west,

Because it is drowned in the midst of light.

385 When by his power Satan becomes a Musulman,⁴

He will be as a shadow hidden under his feet.

All degrees are beneath his degree,

The existence of things of earth is from his shadow.

From his light his saintship is casting shadows,

The west is made equal to the east.⁵

For every shadow cast at the beginning of his course,

Another corresponding one is cast at the ending.

At this present every doctor of the faith

Is as one corresponding to the prophets in prophecy.⁶

390 But since a prophet is most perfect through prophethood,

He is of necessity more excellent than any saint.

Saintship will be all shown forth in the "Seal of the Saints;"

The last point will be finished in the first.

Through him the earth will be filled with peace and faith,

¹ Koran, Sura I. 3. The allusion is to the Sirat, or narrow bridge over hell, along which all men will have to pass on the day of judgment.

² "Be thou steadfast therefore as thou hast been commanded." — Koran, Sura XI. 114.

⁴ There is a tradition, both among the Muhammadans and in the Kabbala, that Satan will become an angel of light. Compare 2 Cor. xi. 14.

⁶ Alluding to the Hadis: "The 'ulama of my faith are as the prophets of the children of Israel."

Through him stones and animals will receive life.¹
 There will remain not in the world one infidel soul,
 True equity will be made manifest altogether.
 By the secret of Unity he will attain to "The Truth,"
 In him will be shown forth the face of the "Absolute."²

QUESTION V.

395 Who then is he who attains to the secret of unity?
 Who is the understanding one that is a knower?³

ANSWER V.

That man attains to the secret of unity
 Who is not detained at the stages on the road.
 But the knower is he that knows Very Being,
 He that witnesses Absolute Being.⁴
 He recognises no being but Very Being,
 And being such as his own he gambles clean away.
 Your being is naught but thorns and weeds,⁵
 Cast it all clean away from you.
 400 Go sweep out the chamber of your heart,

² Koran, Sura XXVIII. 88: "Everything perishes except Thy face."

⁴ Absolute Being is that which is free from all limitation, kaid. L.

⁵ Compare Hafiz, Ode 385 (Brockhaus' edition):

"Sweep off the life of Hafiz as a dream,

Whilst Thou art, none shall hear me say 'I am.'"

And Ode 487:

"From His heart girdle-wise you dwell apart,

While girdle-wise your 'self' enfolds your heart."

- Make it ready to be the dwelling-place of the Beloved.
 When you depart out, He will enter in,
 In you, void of yourself, will He display His beauty.
 The man who is loved for his 'pious works,¹
 Whom the pains of 'negation'² purify as a room that is swept,
 He finds an abode in a 'laudable station,
 He finds a portion in 'what eye hath not seen, nor ear heard.'³
 But while the stain of his own being remains on him,
 The knowledge of the knower assumes not the form of experience.⁴
- 405 Until you cast away obstacles from before you,
 The light enters not the chamber of your heart.
 As there are four obstacles in this world,
 So also the modes of purification from them are four :⁵
 First, purification from filthiness of the flesh ;
 Second, from sin and evil "whispers of the tempter ;"⁶
 The third is the purification from bad habits,
 Which make men as beasts of the field ;
 The fourth is the purification of the secret,⁷
 For at this point the pilgrim's journeyings cease.
- 410 Whoso is cleansed with these purifications,
 Verily he is fit to commune with God.

³ See 1 Corinthians ii. 9.

⁴ See couplet 63. His theoretical knowledge is naught, till he personally experiences and feels the 'Secret of Unity.' L.

⁷ "Secret," i. e. the heart, the secret thoughts. L.

Until you utterly gamble away yourself,¹
 How can your prayer be true prayer ?²
 When your essence is pure from all stain,³
 Then it is that your prayers are 'a joy of the eyes,'⁴
 There remains then no distinction,
 Knower and known are one and the same.

QUESTION VI.

If knower and known are both the One pure essence,
 What are the aspirations in this handful of dust ?⁵

ANSWER VI.

415 Be not thankless for the grace of "The Truth,"
 For it is by the light of "The Truth" that you know "The Truth :"⁶

¹ From the harvest of existence he will never reap a grain
 Who has never sown a seed corn in annihilation's lane.

Hafiz (Brockhaus' edition), Ode 61.

² Ghazzali, quoted in Tholuck, Ssufismus, pp. 4. 105, says, "Prayers (zikr) have three veils, (1) prayers pronounced with the tongue only, (2) prayers undistracted by evil thoughts, (3) prayers offered with such fervour, that the mind can hardly be recalled from thoughts of God. But the marrow of prayer is when the object of prayer possesses the heart, and prayer is effaced and ceases, and the sayor of prayer attends no more to prayer nor his own heart. These are submerged, and if he attends to them that is a veil and a distraction. This is the state named fana, effacement, wherein he is effaced from self, so that he is aware neither of his body, nor of outward things, nor of inward affections. He is 'rapt' from all these, journeying first to his Lord, second in his Lord : and if the thought that he is effaced from self occurs to him, that is a blemish. The best stage is to be effaced from effacement." Compare St. Theresa's 'Prayer of Rapture.'—Vaughan, II. 132.

³ I. e. stain of your own phenomenal individual being, or self. L. This is just Eckart's view. Vaughan, I. 163.

⁴ Koran, Sura XXXII. 18.

⁵ What is the cause of the love and ardour for knowledge of "The Truth" seen in man? L.

⁶ Having no real existence of your own, it is only by the communicated existence and knowledge of God that you know Him. L.

- Besides Him is no knower or known, Be sure,
 Nevertheless the dust draws heat from the sun.¹
 It is not strange that the motes of dust have hope,²
 And desire for the sun's heat and light.
 Call to mind the state and circumstance of your creation,
 For thence will you learn the root of your thought.
 To whom said God, 'Am not I your Lord?'³
 Who was it who then answered 'Yea?'
 420 On that day when He 'kneaded the clay,'⁴
 He wrote by grace the faith on the heart.
 If you will read forthwith that writing,⁵
 You will understand whatsoever you desire.
 Last night you tied the knot of the "covenant of service,"⁶
 But have now forgotten it through ignorance;
 And therefore the word of "The Truth" was sent down⁷
 To recall to your mind that primeval covenant.
 If you have seen "The Truth" at the beginning,
 You may see Him again in this place.
 425 In this place behold His attributes to-day,
 That you may behold His essence to-morrow.⁸

³ "And when the Lord drew forth their posterity from the loins of Adam, and took them to witness against themselves, saying, Am not I your Lord? they answered, Yea."—Koran, Sura VII. 171. Knowledge of God was thus one of the essential properties implanted in man at his first origin. L.

⁴ Alluding to the Hadis: "He kneaded the clay of Adam forty days."

⁵ I. e. the innate knowledge engraved on the heart at creation. L.

⁶ The creature when fresh from the Divine hand, undefiled by plurality, knew and confessed its dependence on "The Truth." L.

⁷ I. e. in the mouths of the prophets.

⁸ I. e. in the world to come. This is addressed only to ordinary men, for saints and 'knowers' attain the world to come in this present world. L.

And if you cannot, yet be not cast down,
Go, hearken to the text 'Thou canst not direct.'¹

ILLUSTRATION.²

He that is born blind believes not what you say of colours,
Though you show him instances and proofs for a century.
White and yellow and red and dark and light green
Are to him naught but darkest black.
See the evil plight of one blind from his birth,
Can he ever gain sight from the physician's eye salve?
430 Reason cannot see the state of the world to come,
As a man born blind cannot see things in this world.
But in addition to reason man has a certain faculty,³
Whereby he perceives hidden mysteries.
Like fire in flint and steel,
God has placed this faculty in man's soul and body;
When that flint and steel are struck together,⁴
The two worlds are illumined by the flash!
From that collision is this mystery made clear,
Now you have heard it, go and attend to your Self.

¹ "Verily thou canst not direct whom thou wilt, but God directeth whom he pleaseth."—Koran, Sura XXVIII. 56. It is not every one who has power to see and know "The Truth" in this life. L.

⁴ The striking together of the flint and steel means the Sufi progress, the purifying the heart from the stain of 'other.' By this collision the flame of love is kindled which burns up the Sufi's phenomenal being, and shows him his true 'self' an integral portion of "The All." L.

- 435 Your Self is a copy made in the image of God,¹
 Seek in your Self all that you desire to know.²

QUESTION VII.

To what point belongs the aphorism, 'I am The Truth ?'³
 Why call you that impostor a vain babbler ?⁴

ANSWER VII.

- Verily 'I am The Truth' is a revelation of absolute mystery,
 Save 'The Truth,' who can say 'I am The Truth ?'
 All the atoms of the world, like Mansur,
 You will take to be drunken and heavy with wine ;
 Continually are they singing this song of praise,⁵
 Continually dwelling on this mystic verity.
 440 If you desire that its meaning may be clear to you,
 Then read the text, 'All praise Allah.'⁶
 When you have carded 'self' as cotton,

¹ Similarly, Bernard of Clairvaux taught that each soul contains a copy of the ideas in the Divine mind, so that the pure in heart, in proportion as they have cleansed the internal mirror, must in knowing themselves also know God. —Vaughan, I. 34. Compare the Hadis: "He created Adam in His own image," and, "He who knows himself knows his Lord." L.

² I.e. in your real self, after you have died to your phenomenal self, and live eternally again in "The Truth." Compare Max Müller, Hibbert Lectures, 375. "The (Brahman's) highest knowledge was expressed in the words tat tvam, 'thou art It'; thou thyself, thy own true Self, that which can never be taken from thee; when everything else that seemed to be thine for a time disappears; when all that was created vanishes again like a dream, thy own true Self belongs to the Eternal Self; the Atman or Self within thee is the true Brahman, from whom thou wast estranged for a time through birth and death, but who receives thee back again as soon as thou returnest to Him or to It."

³ Point, i.e. the point or degree of the Mystic who has found eternal life in real Unity after annihilation of his phenomenal self, baka ba'd ul funa. L.

⁴ Hossain Mansur 'Hallaj' (the wool-carder), who was put to death at Bagdad in 309 A. H. for using these words.

⁵ Tahlil and Tasbih are two of the ejaculations in most frequent use.

⁶ "There is naught but praiseth Allah."—Koran, Sura XVII. 46.

- You, like the ' wool carder,' will raise this cry.
 Take out the cotton of your illusion from your ears,
 Harken to the call of The One, The Almighty.¹
 This call is ever coming to you from "The Truth,"
 Why are you tarrying for the last day?
 Come into the "valley of peace," for straightway²
 The bush will say to you, 'Verily I am Allah.'
- 445 The saying "I am 'The Truth'" was lawful for the bush,
 Why is it unlawful in the mouth of a good man?
 Every man whose heart is pure from doubt,
 Knows for a surety that there is no being but 'One.'
 Saying 'I am' belongs only to "The Truth,"
 For essence is absent, and illusive appearance is absent.³
 The glory of "The Truth" admits no duality,
 In that glory is no 'I' or 'We' or 'Thou.'
 'I,' 'We,' 'Thou' and 'He' are all one thing,
 For in Unity there is no distinction of persons.
- 450 Every man who as a void is empty of self,
 Re-echoes within him the cry 'I am The Truth ;'
 He takes his eternal side, 'other' perishes,⁴
 Travelling, travel, and traveller all become One.
 Incarnation and Communion spring from 'other,'
 But very Unity comes from the mystic journey.⁵
 That which is separate from "The Truth" is phenomenal existence,

¹ "With whom shall be the power on that day? With God, the One, the Almighty."—Koran, Sura XL. 16.

² See Koran, Sura XX. 14, for the history of the burning bush.

⁵ I. e. the annihilation of man's phenomenal self, which obscures his real Self, 'The Truth,' as the waves cover the sea. L.

- Neither does "The Truth" become a creature, nor is a creature united with Allah.¹
 Incarnation and Communion are here impossible,²
 For duality in unity is clearly absurd.
 455 The existence of creatures and plurality is but a semblance,
 And not every thing that seems to be really is.

ILLUSTRATION.³

- Set a mirror over against you,⁴
 Look on it and see that other person.
 Again see what that reflection is,
 It is not this nor that, what then is that reflection?
 Since I am limited to my own proper self,
 I know not what is this shadow of me;
 In 'fine, how can not being be joined with being?
 The two, light and darkness, cannot be united.
 460 Like the past the future month and year exist not,
 What is there but this one point of the present?
 Time is one imaginary point, and that ever passing away,
 You have named it the fleeting river.
 There is none other in this desert, but only I,
 Tell me what is this echo and noise?
 Accidents are fleeting, substance is compounded of them,
 Say how does it exist or where is this compound?⁵
 Bodies exist only through length, breadth and depth,

² Hulul, Incarnation, as in couplet 102. Ittihad, the conjunction or communion of two different things or persons in one. Wahdat, unity, oneness. See Tholuck, Sufismus, page 142. There were sects of Sufis who held each of these doctrines.—Malcolm's Persia, II. 271.

⁵ See couplet 478.

- Since their existence proceeds from these nonentities.¹
 465 And of this kind is all the fabric of the two worlds ;
 Now you know this, have faith and be stablished.
 Of a truth there is no other existence than "The Truth,"
 Whether you say 'He is the Truth,' or 'I am the Truth.'
 Separate imaginary appearances from True Being,
 Make not yourself a stranger but a friend.²

QUESTION VIII.

Why call they a creature 'united,'³
 How can he achieve travelling and journey ?

ANSWER VIII.

- Union with "The Truth" is separation from the creature state,⁴
 Friendship with Him is estrangement from self.⁵
 470 When the contingent wipes off the dust of contingency,
 Nothing remains save Necessary Being.
 The existence of the two worlds is as a dream,
 In the moment of eternity they become naught.
 He who is 'united' is not a creature,⁶
 The perfect man says not so.
 How shall not being find entrance at that door ?
 What connection has the dust with the Lord of Lords ?

² It is only these phenomenal appearances, which are mere accidental accretions to True Being, that veil it from you, and make you a stranger to it. L.

³ This answer discusses the nature of the perfected Sufi, wasil i Hakk, i.e. he who has drawn near to "The Truth,"—who has arrived at Unity. Wasal is defined in the Tamâmi-ul-asâmi, "The extinction of our own existence in the existence of God, as snow melts in the sea and as motes vanish in the sun."—Tholuck, Ssufismus, 72. Compare the Henosis and Haplosis of Plotinus. Ueberweg, i. 251.

⁴ 'Creature state,' i.e. phenomenal illusion of duality. L.

⁵ Compare St. James, iv. 4: "The friendship of the world is enmity with God."

⁶ His phenomenal 'side' vanishes, and nothing remains but his eternal 'side' of Very Being. L.

- How can not being be united with "The Truth?"
 How can not being achieve travelling and journey?
 475 If your soul were cognizant of this mystery,
 You would straightway say "*God pardon my error.*¹"
 You are non-existent,² and not being is ever immovable,
 How can this non-existent contingent move to the necessary?
 No substance possesses objectivity³ without accidents,
 And what is an accident?—what "endures not two moments."
 Philosophers, who have written on natural science,
 Define bodies by length, breadth and depth.⁴
 What then is matter but an absolute nonentity
 Wherein is demonstrated form?
 480 As then form without matter is not self-existent,⁵
 So too matter without a form is naught but not being.
 All the bodies in the universe consist of these two nonentities,
 Whereof nothing is known, but their non-existence.
 Consider then their whole essence without more or less,⁶
 In itself it is neither existent nor non-existent.⁷
 Look upon contingent being in spirit and in truth,
 For apart from necessary being it is naught.
 Absolute Being by its own perfection is pervading all,⁸
 Phenomenal objects are mere imaginary things;⁹
 485 Imaginary things are not really existent,

⁴ I.e. by mere accidents. L.

⁵ See note on couplet 704.

⁶ Whole essence, mahiyat, the Aristotelian to ti, species. Schmölders, Documenta. Here matter plus form.

⁷ If existent it could not become non-existent, and vice versa. L.

⁸ Its perfection is to be manifested. L. See couplet 139.

⁹ Amri 'itibari. "That which has no existence except in the mind of him who conceives it, and so long as he conceives it."—Jorjani, T'arif, Notices des Mss. X. 84. I.e. merely subjective.

Though the numbers are many, only One is counted.
 The world has only a simulated existence,
 Its state is but an insubstantial pageant and a farce.¹

ILLUSTRATION.

OF MODES OF BEING.²

The mist is raised up out of the sea,
 By command of "The Truth" it rains down on the desert.
 The sun's rays are shed down from the fourth heaven,
 And are mingled with the water.
 Then the heat strives to ascend on high,
 And the water of the sea clings to it.
 490 And when with these are joined earth and air,
 There comes forth the green and pleasant plant.³
 This becomes the food of and is transformed into animals,
 Which are eaten by and transmuted into man.
 It becomes seed, and passes through divers states,
 And then there is born of it another man.
 Then when the reasonable soul as a light enters the body,⁴
 There is produced a fair and brilliant form ;
 It becomes child, youth, adult and then aged man,
 It knows wisdom, knowledge, reason, counsel.

¹ Compare Koran, Sura XXIX. 64: "This present life is no other than a pastime and a sport."

³ Compare Milton's Paradise Lost, V. 479 :

So from the root
 Springs lighter the green stalk, from thence the leaves
 More airy, last the bright consummate flower
 Spirits odorous breathes ; flowers and their fruit,
 Man's nourishment, by gradual scale sublimed
 To vital spirits aspire, to animal,
 To intellectual, give both life and sense
 Fancy and understanding, whence the soul
 Reason receives, and reason is her being.

⁴ Alluding to Koran, Sura XV. 29: "I have breathed of my spirit into man."

- 495 Then comes his appointed time from the pure presence,
 Pure spirit returns to spirit, dust to dust.¹
 All the parts of the world are like plants,
 They are single drops from the ocean of life.²
 When the set times of their manifestations pass by,
 Their end becomes again their beginning.³
 Every one of them tends towards its Centre,
 For its nature forsakes not its centripetal character.
 Unity is like a sea, albeit a sea of blood,⁴
 Whereout rise thousands of mad waves.
- 500 Behold how this drop of water from that sea,
 Has assumed so many names and forms !
 Mist, cloud, rain, dew, clay,
 Plant and animal, and perfect man.
 In fine it was one drop of water at the first,
 Wherefrom all these things were fashioned.⁵
 This universe of reason, soul, heavens and bodies,⁶
 Is as a drop of water in its beginning and ending.
 When their appointed time comes to heaven and stars,
 Their being is lost in not being.⁷
- 505 When a wave strikes it, the world vanishes away,
 Then is fulfilled the text "It abounded not yesterday."⁸

² Single because each manifests one Divine Name. L. See couplet 278.

³ They all end in the 'sea of Unity.' L.

⁴ It is a sea of blood because of the continual annihilation in it of its waves, viz. phenomena and plurality. L.

⁵ Compare Wisdom xi. 23; and Koran, Sura XXI. 31: "We made every living thing of water."

⁶ Reason i.e. Universal Reason, the first Emanation, as in couplet 204. L.

⁷ The Koranic texts about the last day are applied by the Sufis to the continual annihilation of phenomena in Unity. L.

⁸ "Verily the likeness of this present life is no other than as water, which we send down from heaven, and wherewith the produce of the earth is mixed, of which men eat and cattle also until the earth hath received its vesture and is adorned. The inhabitants thereof imagine that they have power over the same, but our command cometh unto it by night or by day, and we render it mown, as though yesterday it had not abounded with fruits."—Koran, Sura X. 25.

- In a moment this world passes away,
 None remains in the house save "The Truth."
 At that moment you attain proximity,
 You stripped of 'self' are 'united' to "The Beloved."
 Union here means the cessation of this dream,
 When this dream passes away, it is union.
 Say not 'the contingent outsteps its limits,'¹
 Contingent becomes not necessary, nor necessary contingent.
- 510 He who is transcendent in spiritual mysteries,
 Says not this, for it is an inversion of verities.
 O master ! you have a thousand 'processes' before you,²
 Go and consider your own coming and going.
 Of the argument of part and whole and the 'process' of man,
 I tell you every whit both manifest and secret.

QUESTION IX.

What is the union of necessary and contingent ?
 What are 'near' and 'far,' 'more' and 'less' ?³

ANSWER IX.

- Hear of me a discourse without 'more' or 'less,'
 It is by nearness that you become far from yourself.
- 515 As Being is manifested in not being,
 From that too proceed 'near' and 'far,' 'more' and 'less.'⁴

² Nisha. Lahiji says this includes the processes of mubda, coming or origin, ma'ash, sustenance, and mu'ad, return or going. Compare Koran, Sura XXIX. 17: "See how Allah originated the creature world, and then created a new creation."

⁴ 'More' of Being is reflected in the man who is nearest to "The Light." L.

- He is 'near' on whom 'the light is shed,'¹
 'Far' is that not being which is distant from Being ;
 If He makes to shine on you a light from Himself,
 It delivers you from your own existence.
 What profit to you is there in this non-existent existence,
 Whence you have now fear and now hope ?
 As man fears not him whom he knows,
 It is infants who are frightened at shadows.
- 520 Fear remains not when you have started on your journey,²
 The Arab racer needs not the whip.
 What fear will you have of the fires of hell,
 When your soul and body are purged from existence ?
 Let pure gold be burned in the fire,
 If it contains no alloy, what is there to burn ?
 There is no obstacle in your way but yourself,
 But reflect well on your own illusory existence,
 While you are cloaked in this self of yours,
 The world is always as a veil before your eyes.
- 525 Then you are the lowest part of the circle of being,
 Then are you most opposed to the point of unity ;³
 The phenomena of the world overpower you,⁴
 Thence like Satan you say "Who is like unto me ?"
 Thence you say "I myself have free-will,"
 "My body is the horse and my soul the rider,"
 "The reins of the body are in the hand of the soul,"
 "The entire direction thereof is given to me."
 Know you not that all this is the road of the Magians,⁵

¹ Alluding to the Hadis: "God formed the creation in darkness, then He shed His light thereon, and he whom it meets is guided in the right way, and he who misses it walketh in darkness."

² He who has started on the 'journey to God' is engrossed in his race. L.

³ Compare couplet 324.

⁴ All the attributes of God, egoism included, are manifested as phenomena in man. Hence pride, like Satan's. "I am nobler than he."—Koran, Sura VII. 77.

⁵ Alluding to the Hadis: "The men of freewill are Guebers." They set up man's will beside God's, like Ahriman beside Ormuzd. Koran, Sura XXII. 17. "If man

- All these lies and deception come from illusive existence ?
- 530 How, O foolish man, can free-will appertain
 To a person whose essence is nothingness ?
 Seeing that your being is all one with not being,
 Say whence comes this free-will of yours ?
 A man whose real existence is not of himself,
 Is neither good nor evil in his own essence.¹
 Whom have you seen in the whole world
 Who ever once acquired pleasure without pain ?
 Who in fine ever attained all his desires ?
 Who continued ever at his pitch of perfection ?²
- 535 Dignities are permanent, but men of dignity
 Are subject to the sway of "The Truth." Allah is over all.
 Recognise the "working"³ of "The Truth" in every place,
 Place not foot beyond your own proper limits.
 Ask of your own state what this free-will is,
 And thence know who are the men of free-will.
 Every man whose faith is other than predestinarian,
 Is according to the prophet even as a Gueber.
 Like as those Guebers speak of Yezdan and Aherman,
 So these ignorant fools say 'I' and 'He.'
- 540 The attribution of actions to us is imaginary,
 That attribution itself is but a play and a farce.
 You existed not when your actions were originated,
 You were appointed to fulfil a certain purpose.⁴

be a self-determining agent, will it not necessarily follow that there are as many first causes as there are men in the world ?"—Toplady, VI. 31.

¹ Qualities and will flow from essence, and where there is no essence there are no qualities. L.

² Lahiji explains the argument to be that, if man's will were free, nothing would impede the fulfilment of all his wishes. Compare Anwari :

"If destiny be not the arbiter of mundane affairs,

"Wherefore are men's states contrary to their wishes ?"

³ Alluding to the Hadis : "In existence there is none who works but God." And to Korau, Sura LV. 29. Compare John v. 17.

⁴ Lahiji says this was to reflect the being, qualities, and names of God as a polished mirror, not that man should choose the actions most pleasing to himself.

- By the uncaused sovereign will of "The Truth,"
 By His fore-knowledge giving absolute command,
 There was predestined, before soul and body were,
 For every man his appointed work ;
 One was obedient for seven hundred thousand years,¹
 Yet afterwards bore the collar of curses on his neck.
- 545 Another after his transgression beheld the pure light,
 When he repented, he obtained the name "Chosen ;"²
 And, more marvellous still, it was by Satan's disobedience
 That Adam received mercy and pardon from "The Truth,"³
 Whilst through Adam's sin Satan was cursed.
 O wondrous actions of Thine without how or why !
 The Divine Majesty 'regards not,'⁴
 Exalted high above fanciful reasonings.
 How came it, O foolish man, that from eternity
 This man was to be Muhammad, and that Abu Jahl ?⁵
- 550 He who speaks of how and why in connection with God
 Like a polytheist speaks unworthily of His Majesty.
 It becomes Him to ask how and why,
 Cavils on the part of His slaves are unbecoming.
 Godship consists entirely in sovereignty.⁶
 Causation is inapplicable to the acts of God,
 Mercy and vengeance befit Godship ;

² Adam. "Above all men did God choose Adam."—Koran, Sura III. 30.

³ These are instances of the inscrutable nature of the Divine will, which is not determined by ascertainable causes. Satan's original obedience and Adam's disobedience went for naught. L. See Rom. xi. 33.

⁴ Alluding to the Hadis : "These are in heaven, and God regards not their sins, and these in hell, and God regards not their good works."

⁵ Abu Jahl, 'the father of folly,' was an inveterate enemy of Muhammad.—Koran, Sura XXII.

⁶ "God was the First Great Cause, His will the source of all things, the spring of all motions, all events: it could not be frustrated." This was contained in the very idea of Omnipotence and Divine Felicity, for no perfect agency can be impeded. Aquinas, cited in Mozley, Augustinian Doctrine of Predestination, 237. Compare Aristotle, Nicom. Eth. VII. 13.

- But slavery lies in poverty and necessity,
 The 'honour' of man lies in being under compulsion,¹
 Not in having a share in free-will.
- 555 Man has nothing whatever of himself,
 Yet God asks him concerning good and evil.²
 Man has no free-will, but is under compulsion:
 Ah, poor creature, seeming to be free, yet a slave!
 This is not injustice, but true fore-knowledge and justice;
 This is not oppression, but pure mercy and grace.
 He has imposed on you the law for this cause,
 That He has imparted to you of His essence.³
 Since you are impotent in the hands of "The Truth,"
 Abandon and forsake this self of yours.
- 560 In "The All" you will obtain deliverance from self,
 In "The Truth" you will become rich, O Durvesh!⁴
 Go, Soul of your father! yield yourself to God's will,
 Resign yourself to the Divine fore-ordinance.

QUESTION X.

What is that sea whose shore is speech?
 What is that pearl which is found in its depths?

ANSWER X.

Being is the sea, speech is the shore,
 The shells are letters, the pearls knowledge of the heart.⁵

¹ "And we have honoured the sons of Adam."—Koran, Sura XVII. 72.

² Another instance of the inscrutable nature of God's actions. L.

³ See note on couplet 264. Being under constraint is a necessary consequence of man's acceptance of the 'burden' of displaying the Divine attributes—a penalty of his exaltation. L.

⁴ When 'united' with "The Truth" you will see the Divine will working in your true Self. L.

⁵ Being is a sea whereof phenomenal manifestations are the waves; speech is the shore, because speech, logos proforikos, is the differentia of man (animal rationale),

- In every wave it casts up a thousand royal pearls
 Of traditions and holy sayings and texts.
 565 Every moment a thousand waves rise out of it,¹
 Yet it never becomes less by one drop.
 Knowledge has its being from that sea,
 The coverings of its pearls are voice and letters.²
 Since mysteries are here shown in an allegory,
 It is necessary to have recourse to illustrations.

ILLUSTRATION.

- I have heard that in the month Nysan
 The pearl oysters rise to the surface of the sea of 'Umán.
 From the lowest depths of the sea they come up,
 And rest on the surface with opened mouths.
 570 The mist is lifted up from the sea,
 And descends in rain at the command of "The Truth."
 There fall some drops into each shell's mouth,
 And each mouth is shut as by a hundred bonds.
 Then each shell descends into the depths with full heart,
 And each drop of rain becomes a pearl.
 The diver goes down to the depths of the sea,
 And thence brings up the glittering pearls.
 The shore is your body, the sea is Being,³
 The mist Grace,⁴ the rain knowledge of the Names.⁵
 575 The diver of this mighty sea is human reason,
 Who holds a hundred pearls wrapped in his cloth.
 The heart is to knowledge as a vessel,
 The shells of knowledge of the heart are voice and letters.

who is the epitome of phenomenal existence, and the differentia of a class is its limit or boundary from other classes. Knowledge of the heart=Divine verities. L.

² Knowledge is only communicable by language. L.

³ Shore was before compared to speech, here to body, i. e. the totality of man. L.

⁴ Faiz, emanation; faiz-ul-kadis, emanation of Divine grace.—De Sacy, Notices des MSS., X. 66.

⁵ Compare Koran, Sura II. 29: "And he taught Adam the names of all things."

- The soul is darting as a lightning flash,¹
 It bears these letters to the hearing ear.
 Then break open the shell, take out the royal pearl,
 Cast away the husk, carry off the sweet kernel.
 Dictionary, etymology, syntax and accidence
 Are all only the wrappings of letters.
- 580 Whoso devotes his life to these,
 Has squandered his precious life on trifling.
 From his nut he gets only the dry husk,
 He finds no kernel unless he breaks the husk.
 Nevertheless without a husk the kernel ripens not,
 From external knowledge grows the sweet knowledge of faith.
 O soul of my brother, hearken to my counsel !
 With heart and soul strive for the knowledge of the faith.
 For the ' knower ' gains high place in both worlds,
 Though he be humble, yet by this is he exalted.
- 585 An action which proceeds from good ' states ' of heart
 Is much better than this mere knowledge of the ' word. ' ²
 But an action which proceeds from water and clay ³
 Equals not this knowledge, for this is the action of the heart.
 See what a difference there is between body and soul ;
 You may take one as the east, the other as the west.
 Hence learn at full how bodily actions ⁴
 Are related to knowledge of the word as this knowledge to ' states. '
 Knowledge is not that which loves the world,
 Which has the form, but is void of the reality.
- 590 Knowledge is never coupled with lust of the world,

¹ Nafs has here the double sense of soul and wind, blowing the pearl-oysters to the shore. L.

² The end of knowledge is action or practice, and practice of virtuous acts leads to the acquirement of good habits, ' states ' or knowledge of heart, or ecstatic states. L.

³ I. e. from the body, mere bodily acts. L.

⁴ Bodily actions are to knowledge of the word or of the faith or external science, 'ilm ul yakin, as body is to soul ; and again knowledge of the word is to ' states ' or knowledge of heart, 'ayn ul yakin, as bodily actions to knowledge of the word. L.

If you desire the angel, cast out the dog.
 Knowledge of faith springs from angelic virtues,
 It enters not a heart with a dog's nature.
 Thus runs the saying of "the Chosen,"¹
 Mark it well, for verily it is so.
 When form is contained in the house,
 The angels enter it not perforce.
 Go, cleanse the face of the tablets of your heart,
 That an angel may make his abode with you.
 595 Gain from him the knowledge that is your heritage,
 Begin to till your field for the next world's harvest.
 Read the books of "The Truth"—your soul and the heavens,²
 Be adorned with the principle³ of all the virtues.

RULE.

ON VIRTUES AND GOOD DISPOSITIONS.

The principles of a good character are equity,
 And thereafter wisdom, temperance, courage.
 He who is endued with all these four
 Is a sage perfect in thought and deed.⁴
 His soul and heart are well informed with wisdom,
 He is neither over cunning nor a fool.⁵
 600 By temperance his appetites are subdued,

¹ Alluding to the Hadis, "An angel enters not a house where there are dogs or forms."

² Koran, Sura XLI. 53: "We will show them our signs in the quarters of the heavens, and in their own souls." See a passage from Kant quoted in Hamilton's Metaphysics, I. 38:—"Two things there are which the oftener and the more steadfastly we consider them, fill the mind with an ever-new and an ever-increasing admiration and reverence,—the starry heaven above, and the moral law within."

³ I. e., equipoise or the mean.

⁴ "The sage is he who knows things as they are (speculative wisdom), and acts as he ought (practical wisdom)."—Akhlak-i-Nasiri, Preface.

⁵ This Aristotelian doctrine of the 'mean' is found in the Akhlak-i-Nasiri, I. 4, and in the Akhlak-i-Jalali, I. 4, where also occurs the comparison with the bridge, See Esdras, ii. 7.

- Intemperance and insensibility ¹ alike are banished.
 The courageous man is pure from abjectness and from boasting,
 His nature is exempt from cowardice and rashness.
 Equity is as the garment of his nature,
 He is void of injustice, thus his character is good.
 All the virtues lie in the mean,
 Which is alike removed from excess and defect.
 The mean is as the 'narrow way,' ²
 On either side yawns hell's bottomless pit.
- 605 In fineness and sharpness as a sword,
 One may not turn round nor stand on it long.
 Since equity has only one opposite vice,
 The total number of opposite vices is seven.
 Beneath each number is hidden a mystery,
 For this cause has hell seven gates.³
 Like as hell is prepared for iniquity,
 Heaven is the place always appointed for equity.
 Light and mercy are the recompense of equity,
 Darkness and cursing the requital of iniquity.
- 610 Goodness is made manifest in equity,
 Equipoise in a body is its summit of perfection.
 Since a compound is as one entity,
 It is remote from its parts in its nature and differentia.⁴
 It becomes like to a simple essence,
 And between it and simple essence there is a bond;⁵

¹ Khamad, 'letting the fire out,' 'insensibility,' anæsthesia (Nicom. Eth., III. 10), Akhlak-i-Nasiri, I. part II., chapter 5.

² This refers to the bridge over hell. Compare couplet 382, note.

³ Koran, Sura XV. 44:—"Hell hath seven gates." So in the Midrash.—Rodwell sub loco.

⁵ In Akhlak-i-Jalali, I. 5, it is said:—"The connection of soul with body is by means of a perfect proportion or equipoise existing between the elementary particles, wherefore the dissolution of that proportion effects the severance of that connection,

- Not that bond which subsists between the compound and its parts,
 (For spirit is free from the attributes of corporeity,)
 But when water and clay are purified altogether,¹
 Spirit is added to them by "The Truth."²
- 615 When the parts, to wit, the elements attain equilibrium,
 The beams of the spirit world fall upon them.
 The Spirit's rays shining on the body at the time of equilibrium,
 Are like the rays of the sun shining upon the earth.

ILLUSTRATION.³

- Though the sun abides in the fourth heaven,
 Yet his rays are the light which rule the earth.
 The elementary temperaments exist not in the sun,
 The stars are not hot or cold, dry or moist.
 Yet by him the elements are made warm or cold,
 White, red, green, pink or yellow.
- 620 His command goes forth as that of a just prince,
 One cannot say whether it is without or within the elements.
 When the elements are adjusted in equipoise,
 The Soul is, as it were, enamoured of their beauty,
 A mystical marriage comes to pass according to the *right faith*⁴
 The world is the dowry given to man by the Universal Soul.⁵
 Of this marriage the issue is eloquence,

(i. e. death)." The same doctrine is found in Al Farabi, 'Aẓn-ul-Masail, chapter xix. See Schmölders, Documenta, p. 114, and Milton's Paradise Lost, V. 470.

² Koran, Sura XV. 29:—"We breathed into him of our spirit." Equipoise of body is what attracts this increment of spirit. L.

⁵ Universal Soul is the compendium of all particular souls. L.

- Knowledge, language, virtue, earthly beauty.
 Heavenly beauty¹ descends from the unseen world,
 Descends like some licentious reveller,
 625 Sets up its flag in the strong city of earthly beauty,
 Throws into confusion all the world's array.
 Now riding royally on the steed of comeliness,
 Now brandishing the keen sword-blade of language.
 When beheld in a person it is called beauty,
 And when heard in speech eloquence.²
 Saints, kings, durveshes, apostles,
 All alike bow down and own its sway.
 What is this charm in the beauty of a fair face?³
 It is not merely earthly beauty, say what is it?⁴
 630 That heart ravishment can come only from "The Truth,"
 For there is no partner in Divine agency.⁵
 How can it be lust which ravishes men's hearts?
 For "The Truth" now and again appears as evil.⁶
 Confess the 'working' of "The Truth" in every place,⁷
 Set not foot beyond your own limits.
 Know "The Truth" in the garb of good is the true faith,
 "The Truth" in the garb of evil is the work of Satan.⁸

³ Alluding to Koran, Sura XXXIII. 52 :—"Though their beauty charm thee."

⁴ Compare Sadi's Diwan :

"I know not what sort of shrine is the brow of the fair,
 For if an atheist beholds it, he presently falls to prayer."

⁵ It is Divine beauty displayed in earthly beauties which attracts all hearts. L.

⁶ Evil, batil, vain, false, 'what is without God.'

⁷ See note on couplet 673.

⁸ Lahiji says legal good and evil are both manifestations of "The Truth," because

QUESTION XI.

What is that part which is greater than its whole ?

What is the way to find that part ?

ANSWER XI.

635 Know Absolute Being is that part which is greater than its whole,

The whole is actual being, which is the universe.¹

Actual being bears plurality on its outside,²

For it contains unity only inwardly.

Every actual being is manifested through plurality,

For this is as a veil of its unity part.

Though this whole is to outward aspect many,

It is smaller in quantity than its own part.³

But in fine actual existence is not Necessary,

For actual existence is a vassal of Necessary Being.

640 This whole has not real absolute being,

For it is as a contingent accident of Reality.

The existence of this whole is both plural and single,

And it appears as plural through its plural aspect.

“There is no worker in creation save Allah,” but yet evil comes not from God but from ‘other,’ i. e. notbeing. See couplet 871. This resembles the view of Augustine and Aquinas, viz. that evil is a negation, a departure from God, the source and sum of all existence (Mozley, Augustinian doctrine of Predestination, 253). The Koran is in one department of its language necessitarian, and in another department it uses the language of free-will. Compare Sura XCI. 8. with IV. 81. At one time it says God originates everything, evil included, at another it ascribes evil to man’s will or Satan’s. (See Mozley, ib., p. 36.)

² I. e., on its phenomenal side. Compare couplet 451.

³ Because Absolute Being is the summum genus embracing all species of actual beings beneath it. L. The Neo Platonists and Dionysius the pseudo Arcopagite held a similar view.—Vaughan, I. 96.

- Actual being is contingent, for it is a conjunction,¹
 The contingent is ever hastening of itself to not being.
 In every part of this whole, as it becomes non-existent,
 This whole itself is becoming non-existent on its contingent side.
 The world is this whole, and in every 'twinkling of an eye,'
 It becomes non-existent and "endures not two moments."
 645 Then over again another world is produced,
 Every moment a new heaven and a new earth.²
 Every moment it is a youth and an old man,
 Every moment it is gathered and dispersed.
 Things remain not in it two moments,
 The same moment they perish, they are born again.
 But this is not the great resurrection day,³
 This is the day of works, that the 'day of faith.'
 Between this and that is a great difference, Beware !
 In ignorance make not yourself entangled.
 650 Open your eyes to see amplification and epitome,⁴
 Behold hour, day, month and year.

ILLUSTRATION.

If you desire to understand this mystery,
 Consider how you also have both life and death.
 Of every thing in the world above or below⁵
 An exemplar is set forth in your soul and body.
 Like you the world is a specific person,
 You are to it a soul, and it is a body to you.

¹ Conjunction, ijtamd'i, coalescence. A compound which contains a perishable part is dissolved and perishes when that part perishes. L.

² The world is changed in place, time, and quality every moment. Every moment it is clothed with fresh effluxes of Divine manifestations. L.

³ Tamat i kubra, literally the great overthrow or calamity, Sura LXXIX.34; also called yaum i din, 'day of faith,' Sura I. 4.

⁴ The day of judgment is an amplification of the death and resurrection of phenomena occurring every moment, just as a year is of a day. L.

⁵ I. e., spirits and material elements. L.

- Death occurs to man in three sorts ;¹
 The one every moment is that due to his nature ;²
 655 Of the other two, know one is the death of his will,
 The third death is that compulsory on him.
 And as death and life answer to one another,
 His life is of three sorts in three stages.³
 The world has not the death of will,
 For you alone of all creatures have this death.
 But every moment the world is changed,
 And its last state becomes like to its first.
 And whatever will be seen in the world at the last day,
 Will be also seen in you in your death agony.
 660 Your body is as earth, your head as heaven,
 Your senses as stars, your soul as the sun.
 Your bones are as the mountains, for they are hard,
 Your hair as plants, and your limbs as trees.
 On the day of death your body with contrition
 Will 'tremble' like the earth on the day of doom.⁴
 Brain will be confounded and soul darkened,
 Your senses will become dim like the stars,⁵
 Your pores will run with sweat like the rivers,
 You will be drowned therein as a helpless log.
 665 In your death agony, O wretched man !
 Your bones will become "soft as dyed wool,"⁶
 Leg will be twisted with leg,⁷

¹ Lahiji says:—The first death is that which every existing thing dies, and is every moment born again; the second the ascetic death to the world, according to the text, "Die before you die;" and the third the separation of soul and body. The first death seems to be the Heraclitean doctrine of the flux of all things (rei panta). Heraclitus is quoted in a passage of Jelál-ud-dín Rúmi, given in Lumsden's Persian Grammar, II. 323.

⁶ Koran, Sura CI. 4.

⁷ Koran, Sura LXXV. 29.

- Every friend will be separated from his fellow.¹
 And when spirit is wholly separated from body,
 Your land will be "a level plain, without hills or valleys."²
 In like manner will be the state of the world,
 Which you behold in yourself at that hour.
 Permanence belongs to "The Truth," all else is fleeting,
 Its whole fabric is set forth in the "seven chapters."³
 670 Which say "all that is on earth is transitory,"⁴
 And show forth "the new creation."⁵
 Again the constant annihilation and renovation of the two worlds
 Are like the creation and resurrection of the sons of Adam.
 Continually is creation born again in a new creation,
 Though the duration of its life seems long.⁶
 Continually the overflowing bounty of "The Truth"
 Is being revealed in His continual "working."⁷
 On this side the world is renewed and perfected,
 On that side it is every moment annihilated.⁸
 675 But when the fashion of this world passes away,
 All will be everlasting in the world to come.
 For every object which you see of necessity
 Contains two worlds, form and reality.
 The "union" of the first is true separation,
 The other is what endures for ever in Allah.⁹
 Permanence is a name proper to Necessary Being,
 But yet the place where Being dwells is also permanent,¹⁰

- When the manifestors are suitable to what is manifested,
 In this world is seen the world to come.¹
- 680 Whatsoever exists in potentiality in this "house,"
 Will come into actuality in the world to come.²

RULE.³

- Whatever action once proceeds from you,
 If you repeat it several times, you become master of it.
 Every time you repeat it, be it gain or loss,
 One of these two becomes implanted in your soul.
 By habit dispositions become habitual,
 By length of time fruits gain their savour.
 By habitual practice men learn their trades,
 By habit they learn to collect their thoughts.
- 685 All man's ingrained actions and sayings
 Will be made manifest at the last day.⁴
 When you are stripped of the garment of this body,⁵
 All your vices and virtues will at once be shown.
 A body you will have, but one free from stain,⁶
 In it will be reflected forms as in pure water.
 All secrets will be revealed in that place,
 Read the text "All secrets shall be searched out."⁷

² Here is another reproduction of the Aristotelian doctrines of Dynamis and Energeia, and of habits.

⁴ Dispositions, freed from the stain of the phenomenal, will then be reflected in perfect mirrors. L.

⁵ Compare Plato, Gorgias: "And, in a word, whatever was the habit of the body during life would be distinguishable after death. . . . When the man is stripped of his body, all the natural or acquired affections of the soul are laid open to view."—Jowett's Plato, III. 123. See Rev. xxii. 11.

⁷ Koran, Sura LXXXVI. 9.

- Again, suitably to that special world
 Your dispositions will be embodied and personified.
- 690 Just as in this world from the potentialities of elements
 The three kingdoms of nature are produced.¹
 So all your dispositions in the world of spirits
 Will be made manifest now as lights, now as fires.²
 Phenomenal limitations will be removed from Being,
 Nor height nor depth will remain in sight.³
 The death of the body will abide not in the 'house of life,'⁴
 External form and soul will appear as one stainless entity.
 Your head, foot and eye will become as a heart,
 Pure from the stain of earthly form.
- 695 Then the light of "The Truth" will illuminate you,
 You will behold face to face "The Truth" Most High.
 I know not what intoxication will possess you,
 You will scatter in confusion the two worlds.
 Consider what means "their Lord gives them to drink,"⁵
 And what is "pure wine"! It is purification from self.
 What a draught, what lusciousness, what sweetness!
 What bliss, what ecstasy, what intoxication!
 O happy moment when we shall quit our "selves"!
 When we shall be most rich in utterest poverty!⁶
- 700 Without faith or reason, or piety or perception,
 Bowed down in the dust, drunken and beside ourselves!

¹ Lahiji, quoting from the Hakk ul Yakin, says potentialities of origin, mubda, come into actuality in the present life, m'aash; e.g. from the potentialities of the elements come forth minerals, animals and men; and so the inner potentialities acquired by men in this world, m'aash, are developed by habit into actuality and evidence in the next world, mu'ad, and there find fit mirrors or forms to represent them.

² I. e. heaven and hell.

³ Rom. viii. 39.

⁴ Koran, Sura XXIX. 64: "Verily the future house is life indeed." Lahiji says that 'knowers' attain this stage in the present life.

⁵ "And their Lord shall give them to drink of a most pure wine."—Koran, Sura LXXVI. 21.

⁶ Poor, i. e. by effacing self, and rich by union with "The Truth." L.

Of what account then will be paradise and houris ? ¹
 For no stranger finds entrance to that secret chamber.
 When I have seen this vision, and drunk of this cup,
 I know not what will come to pass thereafter.
 Nay, after all intoxication comes headache, ²
 This thought again drowns my soul in blood.

QUESTION XII.

How are eternal and temporal separate, ³
 That one is the world, and the other God ?

ANSWER XII.

- 705 Eternal and temporal are not separate from one another.
 For in that Being this non-existent has its being.
 The first is all in all, the other is like the 'Anka, ⁴
 Save "The Truth" no names have things answering to them.
 Not being to become existent—this is impossible,
 But real Being in point of existence is imperishable.
 Neither does this become that, nor that this.
 All difficulties are now plain before you ;
 The whole world is merely an imaginary thing,
 It is like one point whirled round in a circle.
- 710 Go ! whirl round a single spark of fire,
 And from its quick motion you will see a circle.

¹ These all partake of the phenomenal, and are external to real Unity and Unification, tauhid. Lahiji cites :

"While heaven and hell stand in your way,
 How is your soul cognizant of this mystery ?"

See complet 338.

² States of ecstasy in this life are only temporary, and are followed by the reappearance of veils and phenomena. L.

⁴ A fabulous bird said to be "known by name, but unknown in the body." Like it, the temporal is an empty name. L.

- Though one be counted again and again,¹
 Yet surely one becomes not many by this counting.
 Cast away the saying "What is other than Allah"
 By your own reason separate that from this.
 How can you doubt that this is a dream?²
 For duality by the side of unity is a pure delusion.
 Not being is single like being,
 All plurality proceeds from attribution.³
 715 The manifestation of differences and plurality of things
 Proceed from the chameleon contingent.⁴
 Since the Being in all of them is One,⁵
 They all bear witness to the unity of "The Truth."

QUESTION XIII.

What means the mystic by those expressions of his?⁶
 What does he indicate by "eye" and "lip"?
 What seeks he by "cheek," "curl," "down," and "mole"?
 He, to wit, who is in "stations" and "states"?"

ANSWER XIII.

Whatsoever is seen in this visible world,

¹ Compare the saying of Mansur Hallaj: "The counting of Unity makes the numbers of Unity."

² I.e. this temporal.

³ I.e. attribution of Being in its various aspects and 'names' to Not Being. L.

⁴ Chameleon contingent means 'ayan i sabita'. See note on couplet 273.

⁶ Mystic, mard i ma'niy. He who turns his face from the world of forms to that of verity, and holds intuitive certainty. L. Ma'niy, interior rei conditio. Freytag.

⁷ See Istilahat us Sufiah, p. 35: "Hal, 'state,' is that which occurs to the heart spontaneously and without effort, like grief or fear, or expansion or cheerfulness, or desire or joy, and which ceases as soon as the natural dispositions of the soul manifest themselves, without being followed by similar states, for if a state becomes predominant, it is called mukam, 'station.' " This definition is evidently derived from Aristotle's account of energeia and hexis. "And, in a word, from like energies arise habits."—Nicom. Eth. II, 1, 7. The Sufis applied the words to ecstatic states. See couplet 585.

- Is as a reflection from the sun of that world.
- 720 The world is as curl, down, mole and brow,
 For everything in its own place is beautiful.
 The epiphany is now in beauty, now in majesty,¹
 Cheek and curl are the similitudes of those verities.
 The attributes of "The Truth" are mercy and vengeance,
 Cheek and curl of fair ones are types of these two.
 When these words are heard by the sensual ear,
 At first they denote objects of sense.
 The spiritual world is infinite,
 How can finite words attain to it?²
- 725 How can the mysteries beheld in ecstatic vision
 Be interpreted by spoken words?
 When mystics treat of these mysteries,
 They interpret them by types.
 For objects of sense are as shadows of that world,³
 And this world is as an infant, and that as the nurse,
 I believe that these words were at first assigned
 To those mysteries in their original usage.
 They were afterwards assigned to objects of sense by usage of the vulgar
 (For what know the vulgar of these mysteries?)
- 730 And when reason turned its glance on the world,
 It transferred some words from that place.⁴
 The wise man has regard to analogy,
 When he turns his mind to words and mysteries.
 Although perfect analogies are unattainable,
 Nevertheless continue steadfast in seeking them.

² Compare couplet 54.

³ See Milton's Paradise Lost, V. 574:

"What if earth
 Be but the shadow of heaven, and things therein
 Each to other like, more than on earth is thought?"

⁴ I.e. to sensible objects from spiritual. L.

- In this matter none can judge you,
 For there is no leader of the sect here save "The Truth."¹
 Yet so long as you retain yourself, Beware! Beware!
 And observe the expressions used in the law.
- 735 The license of mystics is in three "states,"²
 Annihilation, intoxication, and the fever of love.
 All who experience these three "states"
 Know the use of these words and their meanings.
 But if you experience not these "states"
 Be not an ignorant infidel blindly repeating them.³
 These mystic "states" are not mere illusions,
 All men reach not the mysteries of the mystic path.
 O friend, vain babbling proceeds not from men of truth,
 To know these states requires either revelation or faith.⁴
- 740 I have explained the usage of words and their meanings
 To you in brief, and if you attend you will understand.
 In applying them look to their final intent,
 And regard all the attributes of each.
 Use them in comparisons in manner proper thereto,
 Carefully abstain from applying them otherwise.
 Now that this rule is well established,
 I will show you more of these types.

INDICATION

OF THE EYE AND THE LIP.

See what proceeds from the eye and the lip,

¹ Because these mysteries are apprehended only in ecstatic states. L. Compare 1 Cor. ii. 15: "He that is spiritual judgeth all things, yet he himself is judged of no man."

² I. e., when mystics are beside themselves, and powerless to control their expressions. L. Compare Jeremy Taylor: "When they suffer transportations beyond the burden and support of reason, they suffer they know not what, and call it what they please."

³ Unless a man personally experience ecstatic states his use of their types is mere taklid (L.), i. e. cant, blindly copying or repeating.

⁴ If you cannot experience them you must take them in trust. L.

- Consider their attributes in this place.¹
- 745 From His eye proceed languishing and intoxication,
 From His ruby lip² the essence of being.³
 Because of His eye all hearts are burning,
 His ruby lip is healing to the sick heart.
 Because of His eye hearts are drunken and aching,
 By His ruby lip all souls are clothed.⁴
 Though the world is not regarded by His eye,
 His lip ever and anon shows compassion.
 Sometimes with humanity He charms our hearts,
 Sometimes He grants help to the helpless.
- 750 By smiles He gives life to man's water and clay,
 By a breath He kindles the heaven into a flame.⁵
 Every glance of His eye is a snare baited with corn,
 Every corner thereof is a wine shop.
 With a frown He lays waste the creature world,
 With one kiss He restores it again every moment.
 Because of His eye our blood is ever boiling,
 Because of His lip our souls are ever beside themselves.
 By a frown of His eye He plunders the heart,
 By a smile on His lips He cheers the soul.
- 755 When you ask of His eye and lip an embrace,⁶
 One says "nay," and the other "yea."
 By a frown He finishes the affair of the world,
 By a kiss He ever and anon revives the soul.

¹ I. e., in the world of mystery. Eye signifies frowns and coquetry holding aloof from its slave, lip mercy and kindness granting union. L.

² See Hafiz, Ode 305 (Brockhause):

"Since first Hafiz learned to tell the story of 'Thy ruby lip,
 From his pen the eternal fount of life is flowing evermore."

³ Koran, Sura XV. 29: "We breathed into him of our spirit," which the Sufis interpret as the constant efflux of Being by which all things subsist,—the khila't of Being thrown over the nakedness of Not being. L. See couplet 645.

⁴ Literally, 'veiled.' Compare Psalm xxxii. 1: "Whose sin is covered."

⁵ I. e., of jealousy, because the Divine 'deposit' was entrusted to man. L. See note on couplet 264.

⁶ I. e., union with the Absolute. L.

- One frown from Him and we yield up our lives,
 One kiss from Him and we rise again.
 As the "twinkling of an eye"¹ comes the last day,
 By a breath the spirit of Adam was created.
 When the world reflects on His eye and His lip,
 It gives itself up to the worship of wine.²
- 760 All existence is not regarded by His eyes,
 They regard it only as the illusion of a dream.
 Man's existence is but intoxication or a sleep,
 What relation does the dust bear to the Lord of Lords?
 Reason draws a hundred perplexities from this
 That He said "thou mightest be formed after mine eye."³

INDICATION

OF THE CURL.⁴

- The story of the curl of The Beloved is very long,
 What is it meet to tell of this seeing it is a mystery?
 Ask not of me the story of that knotted curl,
 It is a chain leading mad lovers captive.
- 765 Last night I spoke straightforwardly of that stately form,⁵ |
 But the tip of the curl replied, "Conceal it."
 Thence crookedness prevailed over straightness,
 And the enquirer's path was twisted awry.
 By that curl all hearts are enchained,⁶
 By that curl all souls are borne to and fro.

¹ Koran, Sura LIV. 50. See 1 Cor. xv. 52.

² The Eternal Cupbearer pours the wine of Being into the cup of Not being, and hence fills it with the intoxication and illusion of phenomenal being. L.

³ Koran, Sura XX. 40: "I bestowed my love upon thee, that thou mightest be fashioned after mine eye."

⁴ Curl means plurality veiling the face of Unity from its lovers. L.

⁵ I. e., Unity. L.

⁶ I. e., from beholding Unity. See Hafiz (Brockhaus), Ode 338:

"From the meshes of thy tresses there are none who can get free, Thou dost slay thy wretched lovers with no fear of penalty."

- A hundred thousand hearts are bound on every side,
 No heart escapes from the yoke thereof.
 If He shakes aside those black curls of His
 No single infidel is left in the world.
- 770 If He leaves them continually in their place,
 There remains not in the world one faithful soul.
 That spider's web of His is spread as a net to ensnare,
 In wantonness He puts it aside from off His face.¹
 If His curls were shorn, what harm were it ?
 If night were destroyed, would not day be increased ?
 As He plunders the caravan of reason,
 With His own hands He binds it with knots.²
 That curl is never at rest for a moment,
 Now it brings morning and now evening.
- 775 With His face and His curl He makes day and night,
 Sporting with them in marvellous fashion.³
 The clay of Adam became leavened at the moment
 When it caught the perfume of that amber scented curl.⁴
 My heart holds of that curl an ensample,⁵
 So that it too cannot rest for a moment.
 Therefore every moment must I begin my work afresh,⁶
 And pluck my heart out of my bosom.
 Therefore is my heart troubled by that curl,
 Because it veils my burning heart from His face.

“ My bosom's fowl spread out his net, and caught peace for his prey,
 Then thou didst loose that net thy hair, and peace straight flew away.”

² Reason cannot transcend plurality. L.

³ Compare the Vulgate : “ Ludens in orbe terrarum.” By veiling and unveiling His face, He makes light and darkness, faith and infidelity, &c. L.

⁴ Adam obtained the ‘deposit,’—the faculty of displaying all the Divine attributes, —when the khila't of plurality was conferred on him. L.

⁶ I. e., plurality obscures Unity afresh. L.

OF THE CHEEK AND THE DOWN.¹

- 780 The cheek in this place is the theatre of Divine beauty,
 And the down signifies the vestibule of Almightyness.
 His cheek scores a line through beauty,
 Saying "without me is no comeliness of face."²
 The down is a verdant growth in the spirit world
 Therefore is it named the "mansion of life."³
 With the blackness of His curl turn day into night,
 In His down seek the well-spring of life.
 Like Khizr the prophet in a "hidden place"⁴
 Like His down, quaff the water of life.⁵
- 785 If you see His face and His down, of a surety
 You will know plurality and unity every whit.⁶
 From the curl you learn the affair of this world,
 In the down you read at large the "the hidden secret."
 If one sees the down on His face,
 Yet my heart sees His face in that down.⁷
 His cheek is as the "seven verses,"⁸
 Every letter whereof is an ocean of mysteries.
 Hidden beneath each hair on that cheek
 Are a thousand oceans of mysteries from the unseen world.

² His manifested beauty sums up and surpasses all beauty. L.

³ Koran, Sura XXIX, 64: "Truly the future mansion is life indeed."

⁴ See note on couplet 124.

⁵ Passing from land of darkness, i. e. the veil of plurality, quaff the water of life (unity), in the verdant mead, or oasis or down (the spirit world). L.

⁶ The down—the spirit world—is the first plural emanation which veils the face of unity. L. Curl, the sensible world.

⁷ One sees the phenomenal world, and infers from it "The Truth;" another sees "The Truth" first in all that he sees. See couplet 85. L.

⁸ I. e. Fatiha, which contains the whole essence of the Koran, as the cheek is the manifestation of the seven names of God. L.

- 790 See the heart is the "throne of God on the water,"¹
The down on the cheek is the adornment of souls.

OF THE MOLE.²

- On that cheek the point of His mole is single,
It is a centre which is the basis of the circling circumference.
From that centre is drawn the circle of the two worlds,
From that centre Adam's heart and soul.
Because of that mole the heart is bleeding sore,
For it is a reflection of the point of the black mole,³
Like His mole the state of the heart is black blood,
For there is no way of escape from that station.
- 795 Plurality finds not entrance into Unity,
There are no two points in the root of Unity.⁴
I know not if His mole is the reflection of my heart,
Or my heart the reflection of the mole on that fair face.
If my heart springs from the reflection of His mole,
Or if the reflection of my heart is seen in that place.⁵
If my heart is in His face, or that mole in my heart,
This dark secret is hidden from me.
If this heart of mine be the reflection of that mole,
Why are its states so various?⁶

² Mole means the point of Unity—the 'hidden Ipseity,' single in itself, but embracing all phenomena. L.

³ See note on couplet 151. Both are sources of life and existence. L.

⁴ Hence Unity and heart must be one. Which is the original, and which the reflection? L.

⁵ I.e. His face. L.

⁶ The point of Unity is fixed and stable, but the heart is disquieted by constant change of emotions, brightened by Divine epiphanies and darkened by the veil of plurality, now in the spiritual mosque, now in the formal synagogue, now sunk in the hell of carnal affections, now raised to the heaven of spiritual emotions. L.

- 800 Sometimes it is sick like His intoxicating eye,
 Sometimes fluttering like His curl;
 Sometimes gleaming as a moon like that face,
 Sometimes dark like that black mole.
 Sometimes it is a mosque, sometimes a synagogue,
 Sometimes a hell, sometimes a heaven.
 Sometimes exalted above the seventh heaven,
 Sometimes sunken below 'this mound' of earth.
 After devotion and asceticism it becomes again
 Addicted to wine, lamp and beauty.

QUESTION XIV.

- 805 What meaning attaches to wine, torch, and beauty?
 What is assumed in being a haunter of taverns?¹

ANSWER XIV.

- Wine, torch, and beauty are epiphanies of Verity,
 For it is that which is revealed under all forms soever.
 Wine and torch are the transport and light of the 'knower,'
 Behold 'The Beauty' for it is hidden from none.²
 Here wine is the lamp-shade, torch the lamp,
 And Beauty the beam of the light of spirits.
 By Beauty were kindled sparks in the heart of Moses,
 His wine was the fire, and his torch the burning bush.³
 810 Wine and torch are the soul of that flashing light,
 Beauty signifies that 'greatest of signs.'⁴

² When the veil of self is removed. L.

³ See notes on couplets 292 and 192.

⁴ This refers to Muhammad, who beheld a higher revelation than Moses when he ascended by night to heaven and witnessed God as a light. "He saw the greatest of the signs of his Lord."—Koran, Sura LIII. 18.

- Wine, torch, and beauty, all are present,
 Neglect not to embrace that Beauty.
 Quaff the wine of dying to self, and for a season
 Peradventure you will be freed from the dominion of self.
 Drink wine that it may set you free from yourself,
 And may conduct the being of the drop to the ocean.¹
 Drink wine, for its cup is the face of "The Friend,"
 The cup is His eye drunken and flown with wine.
- 815 Seek wine without cup or goblet,
 Wine is wine-drinker, cupbearer is winecup.²
 Drink wine from the cup of "the face that endures,"³
 The text "their Lord gave them to drink" is its cupbearer.⁴
Pure wine is that which gives you purification |
 From the stain of existence at the time of intoxication. |
 Drink wine and rid yourself of coldness of heart,
 For a drunkard is better than the self-righteous.
 The man who dwells far from the portals of "The Truth,"
 For him the veil of darkness is better than the veil of light.⁵
- 820 Thus Adam found a hundred blessings from darkness,⁶
 And Iblis was eternally cursed through the light.
 Though the mirror of the heart be polished,⁷

³ Koran, Sura LV. 26.

⁴ Koran, Sura LXXVI. 21.

⁵ 'Veil of darkness' means dwelling in iniquity, 'veil of light' the practice of good works. He who is veiled by the former knows his own baseness, but he who is veiled by the latter knows it not, being clouded by his own conceit of self-righteousness. Koran, Sura XVIII. 103: "Shall we tell you who are they that have lost their labour most, whose aim in this life hath been mistaken? they who think that what they do is right." L. Compare:

"The fool simple is he who knows that he knows not,

The fool complex he who knows not that he knows not."

⁶ Adam confessed his sin, saying, "O Lord, we have darkened our souls."—Koran, Sura VII. 22.—Satan's pride of origin from fire led to his fall. "Me thou hast created of fire." Sura XXXVIII. 77. Compare Heb. i. 7.

⁷ I. e. by good works. L.

What profit is it when only self is seen on its face.
 When a ray from His face falls upon the wine,
 Many forms are seen on it as it were bubbles.¹
 World and spirit world are seen on it as bubbles,
 Its bubbles are to the saints as veils.
 Universal Reason is dazed and beside itself at this,
 Universal Soul is reduced to slavery.²

- 825 The whole universe is as His winehouse,
 The heart of every atom as His winecup.³
 Reason is drunken, angels drunken, soul drunken,
 Air drunken, earth drunken, heaven drunken.
 The heavens giddy with this wine are reeling to and fro,
 Desiring in their heart to smell its perfume.
 The angels drinking it pure from pure vessels,
 Pour the dregs of their draught upon this world.⁴
 The elements becoming light-headed from that draught
 Fall now into the fire, now into the water.
- 830 From the scent of its dregs which fell on the earth,
 Man ascends up till he reaches heaven.
 From its reflection the withered body becomes a living soul,⁵
 From its heat the frozen soul is warmed to life and motion.
 The creature world is ever dizzy therewith,
 From house and home ever wandering astray.
 One from the scent of its dregs becomes a philosopher,⁶
 One from seeing the colour of the pure wine a traditionist.⁷
 One from half a draught becomes righteous,

² The wine of Divine love and ecstasy intoxicates all phenomena from the first emanation downwards. L.

³ The existence of every atom proceeds from the wine of Divine love. All are vessels holding Being according to their various capacities. L.

⁴ The spirit world was first created, and thus quaffs the wine of Divine emanation nearer to its source. The world is a later emanation. L.

⁵ Aspiring or moving towards its source. L.

⁶ These are the various grades which men attain in proportion to their capacity to receive the pure wine. L.

⁷ Pure, because traditionists repeat the sayings of the prophets. L.

- One from quaffing a cupful becomes a lover.
 835 Yet another swallows at one draught
 Cup, winehouse, cupbearer and wine drinker.
 He swallows them all, yet his mouth remains open.
 Well done, O ocean heart, O mighty wine bibber! ¹
 He drinks up existence at one draught,
 And obtains release from affirmations and negations.
 Freed from dry devotions and empty rites,
 He grasps the skirt of the ancient of the winehouse. ²

INDICATION

OF TAVERN-HAUNTERS. ³

- To be a haunter of taverns is to be freed from self,
 Self-regard is paganism, even if it be in righteousness. ⁴
 840 They have brought you news from the tavern
 That unification is shaking off relations. ⁵
 The tavern is of the world that has no similitude,
 It is the place of lovers that reckon not.
 The tavern is the nest of the bird of the soul,
 The tavern is the sanctuary that has no place.
 The tavern-haunter is desolate in a desolate place,
 In his desert the world is as a mirage. ⁶
 This desert has no end or limit,
 No man has seen its beginning or its end.
 845 Though you wander about in it for a hundred years,
 You will find there neither yourself, nor 'other.'
 They that dwell therein are headless and footless,
 They are neither faithful nor infidels.

² I.e., the Pir-i-kamil, or Director of the Sufi pilgrim. L.

³ Tavern signifies Unity.

⁴ See note on couplet 819.

⁵ Compare couplet 640.

⁶ I.e., an unreal phenomenon in the expanse of Being. In this expanse all 'other' is absent. L. Kharábát means "desert" as well as "tavern."

- The wine of alienation from self has got into their heads,
 They have renounced alike evil and good.
 Each has drunk wine without lips or palate,
 Each has cast away thought of name and fame,
 Talk of marvels, of visions, and 'states,'
 Dreams of secret chambers, of lights, of signs.¹
- 850 All through the smell of these dregs have they cast away,
 Through tasting this self-annihilator they are lying drunken.
 Pilgrim's staff, and cruse, and rosary, and dentifrice,
 All have they given as ransom for these dregs.
 Falling and rising again in the midst of water and clay,²
 Shedding blood from their eyes for tears.
 Now raised by intoxication to the world of bliss,
 Exalting their necks as racers.
 Now with blackened faces beholding the wall,
 Now with reddened faces impaled on the stake.³
- 855 Now in the mystic dance of joy in The Beloved,
 Losing head and foot like the revolving heavens.
 In every strain which they hear from the minstrel
 Comes to them rapture from the unseen world.
 The mystic song is not those mere words and sound,
 For in every note thereof lies a precious mystery.
 Putting from off their head their tenfold cloak,⁴
 Being abstracted from every colour and smell;
 And washing off in that pure well racked wine,
 All colour, black and green and blue.
- 860 Drinking one cup of that pure wine,
 And thence becoming "Sufis" cleansed from qualities;
 Sweeping the dust of dung-heaps from off their souls,

 See the passage from Ghazali in note on couplet 411.

² I. e., now in the delight of 'union,' now in the aching void of separation. L.

⁴ I. e., the senses external and internal. See note to couplet 124.

Telling not a hundredth part of what they see,
 Grasping the skirts of drunkards flown with wine,
 Wearied of teachership and discipleship.¹
 What are devotion and piety? What hypocrisy are these?
 What are teachership and discipleship? What bonds are these?²
 If your face be still set on great and small,³
 Idols, girdles and Christianity are meet for you.⁴

QUESTION XV.

865 Idols, girdles and Christianity in this discourse
 Are all infidelity; if not, say what they are.

ANSWER XV.

Here idol is the evidence of love and unity,
 Girdle is the binding of the bond of obedience.
 Since infidelity and faith are both based on Being,
 Idol-worship is essentially Unification.⁵
 Since all things are the manifestors of Being,
 One amongst them must be an idol.
 Consider well, O wise man,
 An idol as regards its real being is not vain.⁶

¹ "The secrets hid behind the veil from publicans enquire,
 Great devotees of high degree that knowledge ne'er attain."

Hafiz, Ode 4.

² I. e., duality exists no more for the 'united' Sufi. L.

³ I. e., seeing distinctions where all are one. L.

⁴ As a means of training you to see true Unity. L.

⁵ For if 'other' exists 'unification' is impossible. 'Other' involves shirk, giving partners to God, Manichæanism. L. Compare Hafiz (Brockhaus), Ode 79:

"Between the love of the cloister and that of the tavern there is no difference,
 For wherever love is, there is the light of the face of the Beloved.

Wherever the pious works of the Moslem hermitage display their beauty,
 There are the bells of the Christian convent and the name of the Cross."

⁶ See note on couplet 236.

- 870 Know that God Most High created it,
 And whatever comes from the Good is good.
 Being is purely good in whatever it be,
 If it also contains evil, that proceeds from 'other.'¹
 If the Musulman but knew what is faith,
 He would see that faith is idol-worship.
 If the polytheist only knew what idols are,
 How would he be wrong in his religion?
 He sees in idols naught but the visible creature,²
 And that is the reason that he is legally a heathen.
- 875 You also, if you see not "The Truth" hid in the idols,
 In the eye of the law are not a Musulman.
 By telling beads and saying prayers and reading the Koran
 The heathen becomes not a Musulman.
 That man is disgusted with superficial faith,
 To whom the true infidelity has once been revealed.
 Within every body is hidden a soul,
 And within infidelity is hidden true faith.
 Infidelity is ever giving praise to "The Truth;"
 The text, "All things praise God," proves it. Who can gainsay it?³
- 880 What am I saying? I have gone astray from the road?⁴
 "Leave them, and after all that is revealed, say, God,"⁵
 Who adorned the face of the idol with such beauty?
 Who became an idol-worshipper, unless "The Truth" willed it?
 It is He that made, He that said, He that is,⁶
 Made good, said good, is good.
 See but One, say One, know but One,

² I. e. the phenomenal. L.

³ See note on couplet 440.

⁴ I. e. far from the road of the external positive law, but yet leave gainsayers and say of all it is God. L.

⁵ "Say God (has sent down the Koran), and then leave them to amuse themselves with their vain discourses."—Koran, Sura VI. 91.

⁶ Said, i. e. be an idol-worshipper. L.

In this are summed up the roots and branches of faith.
It is not I who declare this ; hear it from the Koran,
“ There is no distinction in the creatures of the Merciful.”¹

INDICATION
OF THE GIRDLE.

- 885 The knotted girdle is the emblem of obedience.
I have looked and seen the origin of every thing,
For the wise man finds no trustworthy information
As to anything except in its original usage.²
Gird your loins, like a valiant man, with manliness,
Join the band who “ fulfil my covenant.”³
With the horse of knowledge and the bat of obedience
Bear off from the field the ball of good fortune.
For this duty did God create you,
Albeit He created many creatures besides you.⁴
- 890 Knowledge is as a father, practice a mother
Of mystic states which are “ a joy of the eyes.”⁵
Doubtless, there is no mortal man but has a father,⁶
There was never but one Messiah in the world.⁷
Cast aside vain tales, and mystic states and visions,
Dreams of lights, and marvels of miracles.⁸
Your miracles are comprised in “ Truth” worship,⁹

² See couplet 728.

³ Koran, Sura II. 38 : “ O children of Israel, fulfil your covenant with me,” i.e. obedience. See couplet 419.

⁴ Koran, Sura LI. 56 : “ I have not created Jins and men save to serve and obey me.”

⁵ “ No soul knoweth the joy of the eyes which is secretly prepared for them as a reward for that which they have wrought.”—Koran, Sura XXXII. 18. See I Cor. ii. 9.

⁶ Knowledge, the father, is necessary, as well as obedience or practice, the mother, to bring men to the good fortune of Union. L.

⁷ See Koran, Sura III. 42.

⁸ Compare couplet 849 and note.

⁹ Miracles, karamat, also mighty works, honour, as in couplet 554.

- All besides is pride, vain glory and illusion of existence.
 In this path whatever is not of poverty of spirit
 Is but being puffed up and seeking our own glory.¹
- 895 By cursed Iblis, who witnesses not verity,
 Are wrought thousands of miracles.
 Now he approaches from the wall, now from the roof,
 Now he dwells in your heart, now in your body.
 He knows all the hidden counsels of your heart,
 He works in you unbelief, and transgression and sin.
 Iblis is the Imám, and you his followers,²
 But how can you rival him in his miracles ?
 If your miracles are wrought only in self-ostentation,
 You are a Pharaoh, to wit, one arrogating divinity.
- 900 But he who has fellowship with "The Truth"
 Is never one who vaunts himself.
 All your regard is set on creatures ; Beware
 That you fall not into captivity of this disease.³
 If you consort with the base, you become an animal ;
 Nay, not an animal, but at once a stone.⁴
 Flee from connection with the base,
 Lest you fall headlong from your natural rank.
 You have wasted your precious life in trifling,
 You think not of what use is such a life as yours.
- 905 They call it peace when it is confusion,
 They take an ass for their guide—see his beard !⁵
 The leadership having now devolved on fools,
 All men have fallen on evil days.

² Because you work miracles for self-ostentation. L.

⁴ Naskh transmigration of the soul into men, maskh into animals, raskh into plants and into minerals, faskh into all. L. See Schmölders (Documenta, p. 123).

⁵ I.e. the mark of the popular Shaikh. L. This passage would seem to have been written under the influence of personal animosity against some particular popular teacher, but Lahiji treats it as of only general application.

- See the one-eyed Dajjal,¹ in what way
 He is sent into the world as an ensample.
 See this ensample, O man of sense !
 Know him for the ass whose name is Jassás.
 See all these asses in the toils of that ass,
 Being the forerunners in ignorance of that ass.
- 910 When our lord told the story of the latter days,
 In several places he signified this matter.
 See now how there are blind and gluttons,
 All knowledge of the faith has departed to heaven.
 There remain not in the midst courtesy and modesty,
 None have shame for their ignorance.
 The whole condition of the world is upset ;
 If you are wise, see in what state it is.
 One who is accursed and banned and hated
 Is now Shaikh of the age, because his father was good.
- 915 Yet that wicked son was slain by Khizr,²
 Because his father and grandfather were good.
 O ass, now you have chosen for your Shaikh
 An ass who is more ass-like than yourselves.
 For as much as "he knows not cat from mouse,"³
 How will your secret be purified through him ?
 If the son shows a trace of his father,
 What shall I say ? Verily he is light upon light.
 If the son be of good judgment and fortune,
 He is as fruit, the cream and perfection of the tree.
- 920 But how can he be Shaikh of the faith,
 Who knows not good from evil, evil from good ?
 Discipleship is learning the knowledge of the faith,

² See Koran, Sura XVIII. 61. Khizr slew him because he feared that his parents would suffer for their son's perverseness.

³ Or 'calling cattle, from driving them away,' or 'good from evil.'

- Kindling with light the lamp of the heart.
 Did ever one learn knowledge from the dead ?
 Was ever lamp lighted from ashes ?
 For this cause my mind is resolved on this,
 To gird my loins with the Magian girdle.¹
 Not for this cause that I may gain fame,
 That I have, but am ashamed of it.²
 925 Since my rival is base for this cause,
 My obscurity is preferable to his fame.
 Again an inspiration came to me from "The Truth,"
 "Cavil not at Wisdom because of a fool."³
 If there were no sweepers in the world,
 The world would be buried in dust.
 After all, the bond of genus connects us all—
 So goes the world, Allah is all-wise.
 Nevertheless flee from the society of the base,
 If you seek to be a true servant abandon form;⁴
 930 Form accords not with true obedience,
 Practise true obedience, and abandon form.

INDICATION

ON CHRISTIANITY.

In Christianity the end I see is purification from self,⁵
 Deliverance from the yoke of bondage.⁶

² Because it is shared with the ignorant Shaikh. L.

³ Because all things are created for some purpose. L.

⁴ 'Ibadat, servitude, obedience, devotion. 'Adat, custom, usage, habit, form, mechanical religion, routine. Lahiji explains it as 'the five pillars' of the Moslem law, viz. reciting the creed, prayer, fasting, alms and pilgrimage. St. Paul's 'righteousness of the law.'

⁵ Purification from self, tajrid. See note on couplet 86. So in couplet 936 below, purified, mujarrad:

"If you ascend, like Messiah, pure and free to heaven."

Hafiz.

⁶ Bondage, taklid. See note on couplet 109.

The blessed portal of Unity is the sanctuary of the soul,
 Which is the nest of the Everlasting—the Simurg.
 This doctrine was taught by God's spirit (Jesus),
 Who proceeded from the Blessed Spirit.¹
 Also by God is placed in you a soul,
 Wherein is a sample of the Blessed Spirit.
 935 If you find release from the carnal mind of humanity,
 You will obtain entrance to the life of Divinity.
 Every man who is purified as angels are pure
 Will ascend with God's spirit to the fourth heaven.

ILLUSTRATION.²

The infant that sucks the breast is confined
 At his mother's side in a cradle.
 But when he is grown up and able to travel,
 If he is manly he goes with his father.
 The elements are to you as your mother after the flesh,
 You are an infant, and your father is the Father on high.³
 940 For this cause said Jesus at the time of His ascension,
 "I go unto my Father which is on high."⁴
 You too, O soul of your Father, turn to your Father,
 Your companions are gone, go forth too.
 If you desire to take wing as a bird,
 Cast the carrion world to the vultures.
 Give to the base the treacherous world,
 It is not meet to give carrion but to dogs.⁵
 What matters relationship? Seek your real friend,

¹ The Holy Ghost, or "Blessed Spirit," is by Muhammadans identified with the angel Gabriel, the Divine Messenger. See Deutsch, Remains, p. 80, and Koran, Sura II. 81, III. 40. The Jewish expositors seem to have held the same view. Rodwell sub loco.

⁴ See John xx. 17.

⁵ Alluding to the Hadis: "The world is carrion, and they that seek it are dogs."

- Set your face towards "The Truth," forsake relations.¹
- 945 For him who is drowning in the sea of not being,
 The text "no relation"² is the coin of his state.
 Every relationship that arises from lust
 Yields no issue but pride and high-mindedness.
 If lust remained not in the midst,
 All relations would become an empty tale.
 When lust is doing its work in the midst,
 One becomes a father, another a mother.
 I say not what your father and mother are,
 For it behoves you to regard them with reverence.
- 950 The deficient in sense is called sister,³
 The envious is named brother.
 Your own enemy is called your son,⁴
 And a stranger your kinsman.
 Say then who are your paternal and maternal uncles,
 What proceeds from them but pain and wrinkles?
 The companions who are with you on the mystic path,
 O brother, are also companions in foolish jesting.⁵
 If you sit in the street of their pleasantry,
 What good can I say you see of them?
- 955 All relations are a fairy tale, a spell, a bond,
 By the soul of the prophet they are naught but a delusion.
 With manliness deliver yourself like a valiant man,
 But yet make not vain the truth of any.⁶
 If one atom of the law be neglected,
 You will be excluded from the faith in both worlds.
 Beware! Omit not the duties of the law,
 But at the same time have regard to yourself.

- From gold and women¹ comes naught but store of pain,
 Abandon them as Jesus abandoned Mary.
- 960 Be a "true believer,"² and forsaking the bond of sects,
 Enter the cloister of faith as a Christian monk.³
 While "other" and "others" are set before your eyes,
 Though you be in a mosque, it is no better than a Christian cloister.
- When the vesture of "other" passes out of sight,
 The cloister becomes to you as a mosque.⁴
 I know not in what religious state you are,
 Cast out your adversary the flesh, that you may escape.
 Idols, girdles, Christianity and church bells
 All indicate the renouncing of name and fame.
- 965 If you would become a faithful servant,
 Prepare yourself in faithfulness and sincerity.
 Go, take yourself out of your own road,
 Every moment renew your faith.
 While infidelity dwells in your inmost soul,
 Be not satisfied with this outward Islam.
 Of yourself every moment renew your faith,
 Be a believer, Be a believer, Be a believer !
 Verily faith is born of infidelity,
 That is not infidelity from which faith is increased.
- 970 Abandon study to be seen and heard of men,

² "Abraham was neither a Jew nor a Christian, but he was of the true religion, a true believer (Hanifun Muslimun), and not one of the idolators."—Koran, Sura III. 60. INDICATION

OF IDOLS AND YOUNG CHRISTIANS.¹

Idols and young Christians are the Light made manifest,
 For it finds its exponent in the idol's face.
 It leads captive all hearts,
 It is now the minstrel,—now the cupbearer.
 975 What a minstrel is he who by one sweet melody
 Burns up the garner of a hundred devotees!²
 What a cupbearer is he who by a single cup
 Makes drunken two hundred men of threescore and ten!
 If he enters the mosque at early dawn,
 He leaves not a single wakeful man therein.³
 If he enters the cloister drunken at night,
 He makes Sufis' stories an empty tale.
 If he enters the college as a veiled drunkard,
 The professor becomes helplessly drunken.
 980 From love to him devotees lost their heads,
 And became outcasts from house and home.
 He makes one faithful, another an infidel,⁴
 He fills the world with tumult and wrong.
 Taverns have been edified by his lips,
 Mosques have been illumined by his cheek.⁵
 All my desire has been accomplished through him,
 Through him I gained deliverance from infidel lust.

- By pride and vanity and self conceit and illusion.
 985 That fair idol entered my door at early morn,
 And wakened me from the sleep of negligence.
 By his face the secret chamber of my soul was illumined.
 Thereby I saw what I myself really am.
 When I cast a look on his fair face
 I heaved a sigh of wonder from my soul.
 He said to me, "O Pharisee and hypocrite,
 "Thy life has been spent in seeking name and fame,
 "Behold this knowledge, devotion, self seeking and illusion,
 "From what have they kept thee back, O laggard!
 990 "To cast one glance on my face for half a moment,
 "Is worth a thousand years of devotion."
 In fine the face of that world-adorned
 Was disclosed and unveiled before my eyes.

 To think of my life lost and my wasted days.
 But when that moon, whose face was as the sun,
 Saw that I had cast away hope from my soul,
 He filled a goblet and gave it me to drink,¹
 And from that draught fire was kindled within me.

EPILOGUE.

- 1000 From that rose garden I have plucked this posy,
Which I have named "the mystic rose garden."
Therein the roses of hearts' mystery are blooming,
Whereof none has told heretofore.
Therein the tongues of the lilies are all vocal;
The eyes of the narcissus are all far-seeing.
Regard each one with the eyes of the heart
Till your doubts have vanished from before you.
Behold traditional and rational and mystic verities,
Ranged in clear order with knowledge of minutiae.
- 1005 Seek not with captious eyes to find blemishes,
For then the roses will turn to thorns in your sight.
Ingratitude is a mark of ignorance,
But knowledge of truth lies in gratitude.
I hope that when the noble ¹ calls me to mind,
He may say of me, "Mercy be upon him."
I conclude and end with my own name,
"O Allah, grant me a 'Lauded' end." ²

¹ 'Azizi. Tholuck takes this as the titular name (Takhallas) of the poet, but it either refers to the noble mentioned in the commencement of the poem or to the pious reader.

² I. e., Mahmud.

NOTE ON THE PROSODY OF THE "GULSHAN I RAZ."

As before stated (p. v., note), the metre is Hexameter Hazaj Catalectic; the last foot may be fa'úlun as well as mafú'íl. (Blochmann, Persian Prosody, p. 31.) Though written in the classical period, the poem contains many pre-classic forms, e.g. مر before the nominative, l. 755; the kasra of the izáfat lengthened to ی, l. 832; the preposition بر with the izáfat, l. 38; ا as the sign of the genitive, l. 554; pronominal affixes separated from their verb, l. 443; the preposition در placed after its noun, to which و is prefixed, l. 109. Contractions are frequent, e.g. bagzasht, l. 28; bastad, l. 61; nanháda, l. 161; nabwad, l. 142; tust for tu ast, l. 269; batar for badtar, l. 323; būd for búd, l. 914; arui for arini, l. 193; alastub rabbakum, l. 419; ta'allallá, l. 13. The tashdid of words like حق, دق, and در is dropped if the metre requires it. (Blochmann, p. iv.) The tashdid is added ob metrum in آمد, l. 821; and, if the readings in the text are correct, to اسم in l. 706, and to بصر and سمع in lines 144 and 403. But this is doubtful. (See Blochmann, p. 9.) In l. 385 the izáfat after mute س is not sounded. (Lumsden, Persian Grammar, ii. 249.) In l. 84 and l. 320 س is treated as a mute س. In l. 368 and l. 552 ه is treated as an alif i waql. (Blochmann, p. 13.) Blochmann says ی doubled by an affixed izáfat or yae tankir should not be marked with hamza, but the MSS. of this poem mark it with hamza or with tashdid, as in l. 703; or leave it unmarked, as in ll. 642 and 336. (See Lumsden, ii. 247). Note that hamza is often used when ی is a single vowel, e.g. ll. 3 and 435. This, according to Blochmann, is its only correct use with ی. Line 347 will not scan as it stands, but the MSS. offer no alternative reading for تمامست. Probably ب here is not sounded, as in کنشست, l. 305, and هفتصد, l. 544. The MSS. generally insert the hamza, indicating an izáfat or yae tankir, after mute س, but sometimes omit it, as in l. 456.

سبب نظم کتاب

- گذشته هفت و ده از مقصد سال
رسولی با هزاران لطف و احسان
بزرگی کاندر انجا هست مشهور
همه اهل خراسان از که و مه
نوشته نامه در باب معنی
در آنجا مشکلی چند از عبارات
بنظم آورده و پرسیده یکیک
رسول آن نامه چون بر خواند ناگاه
در آن مجلس عزیزان جمله حاضر
یکی کو بود مرد کار دیده
را گفتا جوابی گوئی در دم
بدو گفتم چه حاجت کین مسائل
بلی گفتا ولی برو فوق مسئول
پس از الحاح ایشان کردم آغاز
بیکلحظه میان جمع ۲ احرار
کنون از لطف و احسانی که دارند
همه دانند کین کس در همه عمر
بر آن طبعم اگر چه بود قادر
- ز هجرت ناگهان در ماه شوال
رسید از قدمت اهل خراسان
باقسام هنر چون چشمه نور
درین عصر از همه گفتند او به
فرستاده بر ارباب معنی
ز مشکلهایی ارباب اشارات
جهانی معنی اندر لفظ اندک
فتاد احوال آن حالی در افواه
بدین درویش هر یک گشته ناظر
ز ما صد بار این معنی شنیده
کز آنجا نفع گیرند اهل عالم
نوشتم بارها اندر رسائل
ز تو منظوم میداریم مأمول
جواب نامه در الفاظ ایجاز
بگفتم این سخن بی فکر و تکرار
ز ما این خردگیها ۳ در گذارند
نکرده هیچ قصد گفتن شعر
ولی گفتن نبود الا بنادر
